DICTATORS JOLT CHAMBERLAIN'S KID GLOVE RULE

Premier and Halifax Split, London Hears.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Italy and Germany have struck three blows at Great Britain's foreign policy. Today these blows started rumors of a split between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, his foreign secretary.

Viscount Halifax.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel commander, was said to have balked at Britain's plan for getting foreign fighters out of Spain. Franco presumably acted on the advice of the Italian and German dictators.

Premier Mussolini has resumed anti-British propaganda in spite of the British-Italian friendship agreement.

Rehersal for War Seen.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, despite avowals of devotion to peace, gave Europe continued jitters with a program of army maneuvers. Some critics regarded the maneuvers as a dress rehersal for war.

Chiefly because of the Spanish and Czechoslovak-German problems, Halifax was reported to be convinced that it is impossible to save peace without taking a firmer stand against dictators.

Chamberlain's policy has been to try to moderate—rather than oppose completely—Germany's ambitions toward central Europe.

Halifax Sides with Eden.

To do this he sent Viscount Runciman to Prague as "unofficial" mediator to appease Germany's desire for control of Czechoslovakia's 3,250,000 German minority by some means short of granting them autonomy.

Halifax recently has been seeing Anthony Eden, his predecessor who resigned Feb. 20 in protest against Chamberlain's policy of dealing with Italy and Germany. Informed sources expressed the opinion that Halifax has come to believe Eden's stronger policy against dictators is right. He was believed to have asked to be relieved from his job as soon as it is convenient.

There even was some discussion of Chamberlain's retiring this fall. In that event, Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, probably would move up to the premiership.

Casts Lot with Dictators.

Everywhere in Europe it was recognized that the Spanish and Czechoslovak-German questions were symbolic of the conflicts between democracies and dictatorships.

Franco's attitude—and diplomatic quarters feared he had given a virtual "no" to the British nonintervention plan—was believed to indicate he had decided to rely on Hitler and Mussolini. It was believed he would cast his lot with the dictators even if such aid cost him the coöperation of Britain or led France to reopen her frontier to shipment of arms for the Spanish loyalists.

Fear War Is Near.

The main interest in France and Britain, however, centered on Hitler. Even British government experts were said to differ on what German military maneuvers might mean. Some think he is bluffing; others that he is getting ready to march on Czechoslovakia.

There is a tendency in Britain now to discuss not if but when a war will start. One high British foreign affairs official is being quoted in London embassies as predicting Hitler would move eastward about Sept. 15.

Three Dig Way Out of Jail Built Before the Civil War

Metropolis, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Three prisoners escaped last night from the Massac county jail, a brick structure built before the civil war, Sheriff Herbert Goyert reported today. The prisoners used a piece of iron to scratch out mortar and remove several bricks beside the jail entrance. Goyert said the fugitives are John Mitchell, 18 years old, of Paducah, Ky., held for automobile theft; Edward Adams, 21, burglary; Lawrence Hall, 24, criminal attack.

WITNESS LINKS POLITICAL BOSS WITH N. Y. GANG

Asserts He Helped Organize Lottery.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—A witness for the state today testified that James J. [Jimmy] Hines, Tammany leader, was in the room when the Dutch Schultz gang organized the policy racket industry in March, 1932.

The witness was George Weinberg, a Schultz lieutenant, who pleaded guilty to the same conspiracy for which Hines is on trial. He said that Hines accepted a first payment of $1,000 for furnishing official protection to the gang and its racket.

Climaxes Day of Sensations.

Weinberg's testimony was the climax to a day of sensations in this trial which may strike a death blow at ailing Tammany Hall and brighten the political future of the brilliant young district attorney.

Addressing the jury in his opening statement, Dewey charged that funds for the election campaign of William C. Dodge, Hines' protégé, who was elected district attorney in 1933, came from the Dutch Schultz gang. The gang also turned in thousands of votes for Dodge, Dewey asserted.

The prosecutor declared that Hines controled the police to such an extent that policy game arrests were cut in half and judges, influenced by the Democratic leader, dismissed policy cases whenever they appeared on the docket.

On Gang Payroll, He Says.

This was borne out in Weinberg's testimony when the gangster related that Hines took the $1,000 payment, went on the Schultz pay roll at $500 a week, and could draw additional funds if necessary in return for seeing that policy runners employed by the racketeering ring were permitted to go free from the magistrates' courts. Hines also told the gang that night he could "help a lot" with the police, the witness said.

Weinberg's damaging story prompted a furious attack on the credibility of the witness, Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of the defense legal battery, insisted that Weinberg had lied on the witness stand in the Federal court in Albany two years ago.

Denies Business Connection.

In that litigation, Weinberg was attempting to obtain $24,000 in bonds which he said he had furnished toward the $75,000 bail which Schultz had to put up in an income tax evasion case in 1935, shortly before he was shot and killed in a Newark saloon. At that time, Weinberg testified, he never had any business relations with Schultz. Today he admitted he was associated with him in a criminal enterprise.

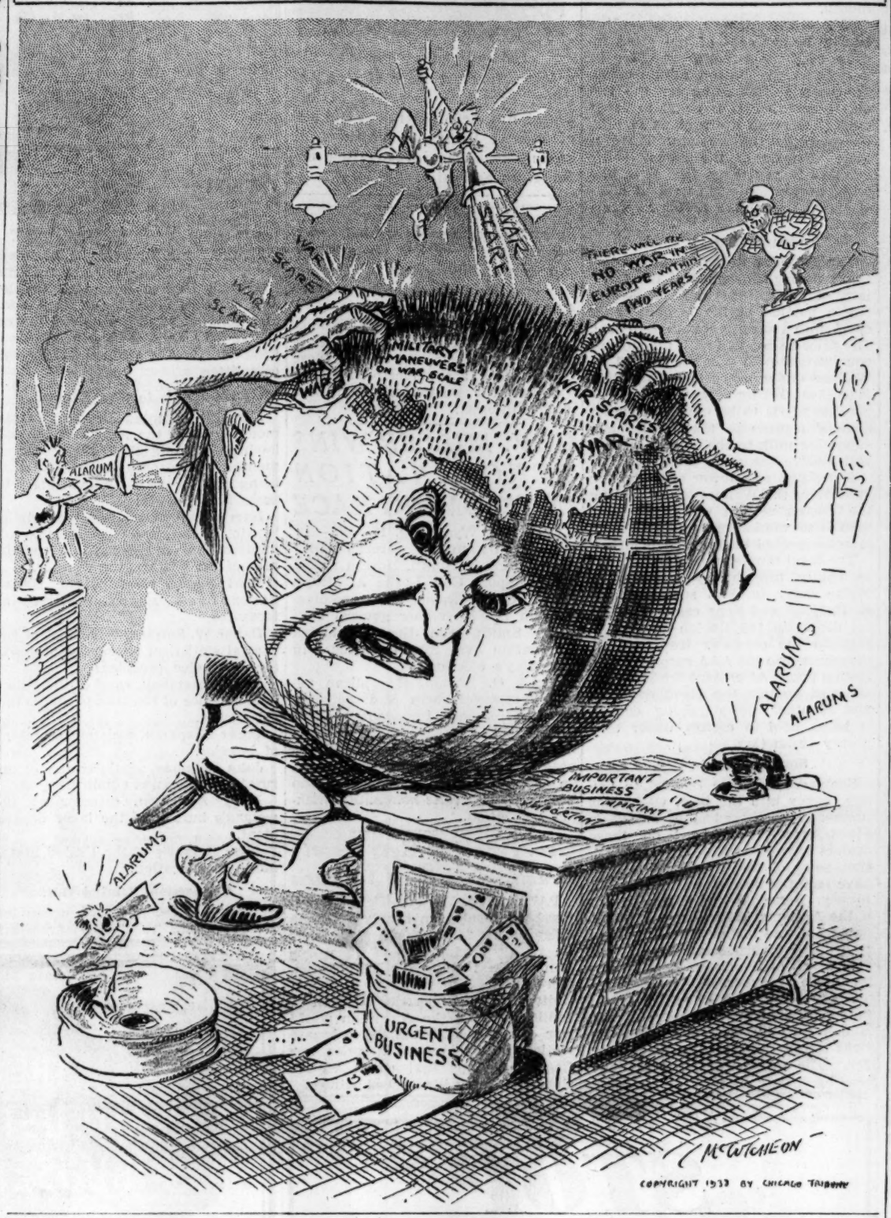
HARD TO CONCENTRATE ON BUSINESS WITH THESE CONSTANT DISTRACTIONS



Young Aladdin Rubs a Pickle Jar, and O Boy!

Playing in the back yard of his home at 1836 South Throop street, George Kosir unearthed a buried pickle jar. Inside was something green, so George, who is 11 years old and likes pickles, pried off the lid.

Instead of gherkins, he found greenbacks. They added up to $940. "Whoopee!" yelled George, "I'm rich!"

That was on July 8. Yesterday in Boys' court Judge Lambert K. Hayes heard what had happened to most of the $940.

A Lavish Hand.

Consider these items:

He pitched coins across the Sanitary canal to his friends.

The same sextet hired horses at a riding academy to play cowboy on the bridle paths. The bill, $32.

An older youth, George Kotrba, 19, of 1833 South Throop street, declared himself in on the melon, setting aside $120 as a personal reserve and joining the boys on their excursions. The whole story came out when Kotrba was arraigned before Judge Hayes on a charge of larceny for his part in depleting the pickle jar.

A Typical Day.

Kotrba kept an accurate account of the spending program. A typical day:

Taxicabs, $5; eats, $15; motorboat rides, $7.50; carnival, $5; Riverview, $50, and more eats, $1.

"How did six boys eat up $15 worth of food?" the judge asked.

"Well, scotch and sodas cost 45 cents each," said one of the boys.

"What!" thundered the judge. "Who was drinking scotch?"

"I was the only one," admitted Kotrba, squirming. "The others had beer and milk."

John Kosir, father of the discoverer of the buried treasure, said he had recovered $263 last night from George and his friends. He had buried the money in his back yard. Judge Hayes suggested parents of the lads involved make up the difference.

LADY SWIMMERS GET CITY O. K. TO BLOSSOM OUT MINUS BLOOMERS

It's official now. Women swimmers don't have to wear bloomers. People in a parade can keep in step when they cross a bridge. Liquor can be sold in drug stores. Motion pictures can be shown in private homes without a license.

The city council yesterday passed several new sections of a revised Chicago code prepared by the judiciary committee under the direction of Ald. H. L. Brody [39th]. Many obsolete ordinances were amended or repealed. More new sections are being prepared by the city law department.

Until these sections are passed it still will be unlawful for women to sport hatpins more than six inches long.

Increase of 30 per cent in all WPA wages.

Free transportation to and from all jobs.

Free medical service.

Change in the distribution of relief to a cash basis, with $65 per month for a family of two and $7 additional for each dependent.

Twist of the Tongue Makes Weed Killers' Task Simple

Monticello, N. Y., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Mayor De Hoyos wants to discourage the wearing of shorts by women in public. He has prepared for posting tomorrow placards which read: "Only old women may wear shorts on Broadway, village of Monticello."

British Shout '1401' and Toss Out Chicagoan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Hugo Loeser, Chicago liquor importer, today received a rough welcome in the London financial district which he visited as a sightseer.

Hugo Loeser.

Sauntering through the City, as the financial district is known, Loeser came upon what he took for a busy broker's office. He wandered in to look at the stock quotations.

Suddenly the crowded, noisy hall became more uproarious than ever. Shouts of "Fourteen hundred and one" arose. Business stopped. The crowd surged around Loeser.

Offers to Do Battle.

Somebody knocked off his straw hat. When he offered to fight, he was hustled to the door and ejected. While the Chicagoan was straightening his rumpled clothes, a uniformed attendant questioned him.

During the discussion Loeser learned he had invaded the sacred precincts of London's stock exchange.

The cry "Fourteen hundred and one" is the traditional war cry when a stranger is spotted on the floor, because the membership once was limited to 1,400. The cry indicates that an outsider is present.

Later Loeser discovered how lucky he was to get off so lightly. Intruders frequently have trousers or other parts of their clothing removed before they are ejected.

Says Experience Was Funny.

The liquor importer tonight said he no longer was annoyed over his treatment.

"The experience was funny," he commented a bit sourly.

Loeser, who is 57 years old, lives at 5492 Everett avenue in Chicago. He left Germany for the United States twelve years ago and is an American citizen. He has been traveling in Europe for the last two months.

Ax Men Strike at Syndicate's Gaming Joints

Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin.

Six of Courtney's men, each armed with an ax, chopped up an ornate gambling joint at 29 West Randolph street.

The state's attorney's argument was that crime cannot be stopped while millions of dollars are going into the hands of politically protected gangsters who control hundreds of gambling houses. His plan is to use direct action—action with an ax—on the big gaming rooms and follow with more direct action as soon as they reopen. The raids are to be extended from the loop to residential wards. Big gaming rooms out in the county are also listed for the same treatment.

Million Dollar Incomes.

Courtney's investigators report million-dollar-a-year incomes are enjoyed by the big shots of the syndicate—income from vice and gambling.

The big gambling house raided yesterday was operated by Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin.

Levin went to federal prison for not paying federal taxes on a income of over $1,000,000 in prohibition days. His present income is said to be tremendous because of his leadership in the gambling syndicate.

Other big incomes from gambling, which Courtney says he will stop, are those of William R. Skidmore, Frank Nitti, Charles Fischetti, Louis Campagna, Lawrence [Dago] Mangano, Danny Stanton, and George [Dutch] Gogel. They are all Caponeites and overlords of gambling and vice.

Three Reasons for Drive.

Courtney's ax drive on gambling joints was decided upon for three reasons. They are:

1. Police officials have been warned repeatedly by the state's attorney, in letters and verbally, but have failed to stop gambling.

2. Juries, given evidence of gambling by the state's attorney's raiders, have refused to convict gamblers.

3. Levin, in a statement made to the state's attorney's office a few months ago, defied Courtney. He said that raids meant nothing; that he would open up within twenty-four hours after his places were raided and he was out on bond.

The wrecking campaign was decided upon on the theory that even the rich syndicate cannot stand that expensive policy for long.

Ruin Levin's Joint.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert led the six policemen who yesterday ruined the ornate betting parlor in the basement at 29 West Randolph street. It was

REVEAL BERRY'S HIDDEN ROLE IN MARBLE LEASES

Name Used as Lure, TVA Quiz Shows.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—When the Berry marble and mineral leases were taken out in the Norris dam reservoir area in 1932 land owners were told Maj. George L. Berry was a silent partner in the project and would help get a settlement with the government. This was disclosed today before the congressional committee investigating TVA.

Since then Maj. Berry has become a United States senator. He was appointed to that post in May, 1937, and defeated for renomination in the recent Tennessee primaries. The marble holdings of Berry and his associates, on lands flooded by Norris dam, were declared worthless last winter by a federal court commission.

Disclosure of the use of Berry's name in obtaining the marble leases was made before the congressional committee by V. H. Graves. Graves, a Jamestown, Tenn., notary public, said he helped round up about 200 of the leases.

Berry in Background.

The leases were taken out in the names of W. H. Ford and C. H. Harris. Graves said Harris instructed him to tell land holders that if they gave a lease they would get a better price for their land from the government.

Graves testified that, although the names of Ford and Harris were out in front, Berry was known to be financing them. So, he said, in his sales talk Berry was played up as being behind the scenes. [Berry testified before the committee yesterday that he financed the activities of Ford and Harris.]

Testimony has indicated, however, that TVA did not become officially aware of Berry's part in the leases until Nov. 30, 1934. On that date E. C. Eckel, TVA chief geologist, wrote a memo to Carl Bock, assistant TVA engineer.

Senator's Interest Cited.

In the memo Eckel suggested Berry had a 50 per cent interest in the Ford and Harris leases. He also said Berry marble was being used in a government warehouse in Washington to build up value for the claims.

Graves' testimony was summed up in a question by Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.], a member of the committee.

"So you told the landowners, as instructed by Harris, that leases would add value to the ground and bring more money from the government, that Maj. Berry was one of those interested, and that would help get a settlement through?" Wolverton asked.

"That's right," replied Graves.

"Did you actually believe that a lease would add value to a parcel of land?" Wolverton asked.

"Well," said the witness, "not altogether."

Witnesses Sent for Files.

Two witnesses today were sent to their offices to get their letter files for Wolverton. They were Harris, partner of Ford, and Fred Manley, Knoxville architect, who got George Collins of Frankfort, Ky., to buy most of Ford's interest in the leases.

Both these witnesses had been asked by Wolverton: "Did you get a letter from Berry in which he said he had seen Lilienthal [TVA Director David E. Lilienthal] and we are going to get our money?" The letter files produced by the witnesses did not contain such a letter and both denied ever having seen one.

"Did you show such a letter to Jewel Sharp?" Wolverton asked both witnesses. Each replied, "No." The Sharp family executed powers of attorney that gave Harris and Berry authority to sue the government for damages to flooded property. [The senator said yesterday this was without his knowledge.]

Marble Strategy Revealed.

Another illuminating chapter at today's hearing was the story of how a poor grade of Spanish marble was shown in contrast with the best grade of Berry marble to demonstrate the superiority of the latter. This took place at the condemnation trial which resulted in the federal commission's finding that the Berry claims were valueless.

The story was unfolded in the testimony of Manley, the architect, who described himself as a field man

Wolverton first quoted testimony of Michael Bernardi, superintendent of the Gray Knox Marble company here. Bernardi, the congressman pointed out, said Manley had asked him to pick out an inferior piece of marble from Spain.

"Why," asked Wolverton, "did you ask Bernardi to get you the poorest piece of Spanish marble he could find?"

Manley said he had asked for a sample that would show how flaws are fixed up, and that the disputed Berry marble was flawless.

"You had that poor piece of Spanish marble before the commission to show local marble is superior?" Wolverton asked.

Repeats His Explanation.

At another point Manley was reproached by Wolverton for the air of stealth which surrounded the marble lease activities. Letters Manley wrote to Ford were unsigned. That, the witness explained, was "just a habit."

In one letter read into the record, Manley asked Ford to return his letters after reading them and promised to do likewise. Asked why he did that, Manley said: "I had in mind letters Ford had stolen out of his home."

In another letter to Ford, in May, 1933, Manley said: "I have a letter from Berry stating he hopes to get a definite settlement." Manley said that referred to a settlement of the work he and Ford were to do and not to one with TVA. Asked to produce the Berry letter, the witness said he would "if it has not been stolen."

Denies Settlement Forecast.

Collins, the man who bought a large share of Ford's marble leases, also took the stand today. He denied he once said Senator Berry could get an early settlement of his marble claims against the TVA. Ford testified yesterday that Collins told him in 1935 that there would be a settlement very soon with TVA because Dr. Arthur E. Morgan would soon be out as TVA chairman. [Dr. Morgan was ousted by President Roosevelt in March, 1938.] Ford said he assumed Collins got his information from Senator Berry.

"I didn't tell anybody Berry said he could effect an early settlement," Collins testified. "I never even thought Dr. A. E. Morgan would be put out, and I never told anybody he would.

"I never said Berry could handle Lilienthal or Lilienthal could handle H. A. Morgan [another TVA director], and I never heard Senator Berry say any such thing. I never said anything about the case ruining Berry or the President."

LINDBERGH LANDS IN MOSCOW; SAYS 'I HAVE NO PLANS'

MOSCOW, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here tonight after stops at Minsk and Mohilev on their flight from Warsaw. They were met by soviet civil airport officials and representatives of the American embassy.

To the foreign press Lindbergh gave a four-word statement:

"I have no plans."

The American chargé d'affaires, Alexander C. Kirk, invited the Lindberghs to stay at Spaso house, the residence formerly occupied by former Ambassador Joseph E. Davies.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO CANADA FOR TWO ADDRESSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

En route with President Roosevelt, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was off to Canada today. It was his fifth visit to the dominion since he took office in 1933.

The President will receive an honorary degree from Queen's college, Kingston, Ont., tomorrow morning. In the afternoon he and Mackenzie King, the Canadian premier, will dedicate the new eight and a half-mile international bridge spanning the Thousand Islands and the St. Lawrence river between Collins Landing, N. Y., and Ivy Lea, Ont.

The President will go to his Hyde Park home on the Hudson river after his Canadian visit, arriving there Friday morning. He will stay for ten days, returning to Washington, Aug. 30. He will be in the capital only a few days before making another expedition. In September he will visit Pennsylvania, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

HEATER BLAST SHATTERS HOME; FAMILY UNHURT

Neighbors yesterday visited the home of Arthur Harloff at 938 Asbury avenue, Evanston, as if it were a museum. They also congratulated Mr. Harloff, his wife, and three children, on their narrow escape from injury.

At 3:52 a. m. Tuesday the neighborhood was startled by a loud explosion. A gas heater in the basement of the Harloff home had become overheated. It had no safety valve. When the tremendous steam pressure built up inside reached the breaking point the heater shot upward.

It tore through two heavy joists and part of the wall, and plunged through the first floor for four feet, shattering a radiator and a piano. The Harloffs, asleep on the second floor, were hurled from their beds, but escaped injury. The blast weakened the foundation and forced out the walls of the first floor, shattering windows in nearby houses.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The efforts of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to fix farm milk prices in the Boston dairy territory have resulted in delaying payment of $1,700,000 of the farmers' milk checks. This money is in the hands of the clerk of the United States District court of Massachusetts. The sum is increasing at the rate of $150,000 a month.

The frozen money, representing nearly 10 per cent of the gross income of dairy farmers supplying 31 dealers in the Boston milk market, has been accumulating for the last eleven months. It is equal to about one-half cent on every quart of milk delivered by the farmers. There is little prospect of the money being released to pay taxes, feed bills, and other production costs without a decision in the United States Supreme court.

Funds Sought for Pool.

The tieup in litigation has come about through attempts of the secretary of agriculture to have dealers pay a portion of the farmers' milk check into a surplus equalization pool. The price fixing plan with the surplus equalization pool was established by Wallace under authority of the 1937 federal marketing agreement act. The pool money is to be used to equalize dealers' returns so that all farmers supplying milk to the Boston market will receive the same price.

A decision of a lower court on the validity of the Wallace order, placing the Boston market under the AAA plan to set minimum farm milk prices, is not expected before next month.

The legal tangle results from a bill in equity brought by a group of Maine dairy farmers supplying the H. P. Hood and Sons company, largest dealer in the Boston market, to restrain the company from making payments into the AAA surplus equalization pool. At present the $1,700,000 assessed against the Hood company and 30 other noncomplying dealers is being held in escrow under temporary injunction.

Some Refuse to Pay.

Some dealers have refused to pay any money into the pool, which has further complicated the situation. Fines promptly imposed on these dealers have been appealed. In addition, some of the dealers claim they have paid the farmers all they agreed to pay. Some dealers also say that if the AAA marketing order is invalidated and the money held in escrow is ordered returned, they will keep part or all of it instead of passing it on to the producer.

Today only about one-third of the fluid milk sold in the Boston market is delivered by dealers or organizations complying with the Wallace order. The other two-thirds is delivered by dealers who contest the legality of the government market order.

Since New York and Chicago—the two largest milk markets in the country—are the next objectives of the AAA officials in carrying out their price fixing plan to make Wallace milk dictator of the nation, farmers and distributors in and around these two centers are understood to be watching the Boston situation with intense interest.

HIGH OFFICIALS OF U. S. LINKED TO RED SOCIETY

Names of Eight Given at House Investigation.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Eight high federal officials were named today as members or officers of the Washington chapter of the American League for Peace and Democracy. The organization was described as an arm of the communist party in America. The charge was made by Representative Noah M. Mason [R., Ill.], before the special house committee investigating un-American activities.

Homer L. Chaillaux. [A.P. Wirephoto.]

At the same time Homer L. Chaillaux, Americanism director of the American Legion, demanded legislation to place activities of both Nazi and communist organizations in the United States under legal prohibition. Chaillaux was a witness before the committee.

Interrupts to Give Names.

Mason interrupted Chaillaux's testimony to place the names of the following eight officials in the record as members of an organization which is being used by the communist party to press its interests:

Harry Lambertson, assistant administrator of the rural electrification administration, who Mason said is chairman of the Washington chapter.

Fred Silcox, chief of the United States forest service, described as treasurer.

Dallas W. Smythe, economist of the central statistical bureau, who Mason said was vice president.

Connection Pointed Out.

"Is it not true," Mason demanded of Chaillaux, "that the American League for Peace and Democracy is an arm of the Popular Front of the communist party?"

"That is true," Chaillaux replied. "A common trait characterizes all such communist dominated organizations. They are not interested in promoting peace and democracy. They are not interested in eliminating Nazism or Fascism. They are interested only in hiding their communist support."

Mason then read a statement which he attributed to Marshall, chief of the public land service. In the statement, Marshall said he was personally in favor of public ownership of oil lands, both in Mexico and this country.

The Illinois representative did not say when or where the statement was made. Later he told a reporter that Marshall had made it to an investigator of the special committee.

Group To Be Investigated.

The Mason charge caught the committee by surprise. Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] immediately announced that the activities of the league would be thoroughly looked into by the committee.

Lambertson ridiculed the Mason charge that the organization of which he is Washington chairman is communistic.

"Quite a number of Washington people are interested actively in the league," he said at his office. "Its policy is based on that expressed at Chicago by President Roosevelt—quarantine the aggressor."

Chapman said he believed he was a member but said he does not possess a membership card. Carmody said he did not know whether his position as a sponsor made him a member.

"I have sponsored this activity a good deal as I might sponsor square dancing," he said. "On the whole, I am a fairly peaceful person. As for democracy, I was born in it and rather like it."

Miss Anderson denied membership in the league. Smythe denied that the organization is communistic. Marshall was en route to Alaska on a vacation.

Other Inquiring Disclosed.

It was disclosed that the committee plans to inquire into reports of un-American activities by government employés when Representative J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.] asked whether the Legion had files listing federal employés engaged in communist activities.

Chaillaux suggested that the committee call other Legion officials for such information.

During the morning the committee went into executive session to hear a witness presenting charges that Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. and maritime union leader, was being protected by the department of labor. The witness was Margaret A. Kerr, spokeswoman for the Los Angeles Better American Federation.

The executive session was brief. Dies disclosed that the session had been continued because documentary evidence was necessary for the presentation of her charges. She is to return to the stand in executive session as soon as the documents can be obtained.

'40 PARTY RULE DECLARED GOAL IN PURGE DRIVE

Convention Control Rated as Real Objective.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Republicans and conservative Democrats insisted today that the real purpose of President Roosevelt's attempted purge of the Democratic party is to control the 1940 convention and make possible his nomination for a third term if he should determine to run.

They cited Mr. Roosevelt's own record in refutation of his latest explanation that he is interfering in state primaries solely because he wants men in congress who will help him carry out his campaign promises.

Two Leaders Denounced.

This was the defense offered by the President yesterday when he denounced by name Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland and Representative John J. O'Connor of New York as betrayers of his administration. Previously he had excorciated Senator Walter F. George of Georgia and called for the election of United States District Attorney Lawrence Camp, who is running against Senator George as a 100 percenter.

Representative O'Connor, who is chairman of the important rules committee of the house, today announced that he would reply to Mr. Roosevelt's assault in a nationally broadcast speech at 7:45 [Chicago time] tomorrow night.

Due Back in September.

The President left Washington today for a trip to Kingston, Ont., and Hyde Park, N. Y., after completing plans for a resumption of his purge efforts when he returns around the first of September. It is reported in reliable quarters that he will go into Maryland, probably to Baltimore, to make a speech against Senator Tydings on Labor day, Sept. 5—a week before the Sept. 12 primary. The President yesterday called for the nomination of Representative David J. Lewis, the hand picked 100 percenter, who is running against Senator Tydings.

The fact that the President does not plan to return to Washington before the first of the month would seem to preclude another invasion of South Carolina against Senator Ellison D. Smith, since the primary in that state will be held on Aug. 30.

Fails to Attack Smith.

At his recent rear platform appearance in Greenville, S. C., the President heeded advices against risking his political prestige by a personal attack on Senator Smith. He contented himself with kindly words for Gov. Olin D. Johnston, the hand picked administration candidate.

Just before he left Washington the President received a telegram from Connecticut urging him to give Senator Augustine Lonergan the same treatment accorded Senators George and Tydings and Representative O'Connor. The telegram was signed by Dr. M. F. Claffey of Bristol, one of the managers of Representative Herman P. Kopplemann, who is running as a 100 percenter against Senator Lonergan.

Seek Aid for Kopplemann.

"Your speech in Georgia highly appreciated," said the telegram. "What Senator George did to you, Senator Lonergan did also. The people of Connecticut are voting against Senator Lonergan as he voted against you. Kopplemann did not let you down; don't let him down."

Senator Lonergan was one of the nine Democratic senators up for reelection this year who were marked for the purge because of their opposition to the bill to pack the United States Supreme court. The President could hardly make a personal assault upon him at this time, however, without embarrassment, for Senator Lonergan has been indorsed by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, a Connecticut voter.

Senator Lonergan has been indorsed also by the American Federation of Labor and by the railroad brotherhoods.

Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee was one of those who challenged Mr. Roosevelt's contention that he is interfering in primaries solely because he wants to keep his campaign promises. In Boston, Mass., Chairman Hamilton said the purge was "grounded more in an attempt to gain control of local organizations than to advance any political policy."

Conservative Democrats in Washington agreed with this interpretation and cited increasing evidences of the President's efforts to gain control of state and local organizations. The latest was Mr. Roosevelt's appointment today of W. W. Crawford to be United States marshal for the district of Montana. Crawford was recommended by Senator James E. Murray, a 100 per center, and he replaces Sid Willis, who was sponsored by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, leader of the fight against the court packing bill.

In Governorship Contests.

The Roosevelt administration also is interfering in Democratic gubernatorial primaries for the purpose of controling delegations to the 1940 convention, the conservative Democrats declared. They cited the case of Ohio, where the administration supported Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman, against Gov. Martin L. Davey.

In New York, also, the administration is searching for a candidate for governor who would be strong enough to control the huge delegation from that state. There is still talk of drafting Senator Robert F. Wagner for this purpose.

President Roosevelt's strongest opposition within the Democratic party is in the south, and that is why he is seeking to wrest control from veteran southern senators, the conservatives declare. Unless they can be unhorsed, they will control the southern delegations to the 1940 convention and could be expected to throw their strength to some anti-Roosevelt man favored by Vice President John N. Garner of Texas.

REPUBLICAN DAY ORATORS CHARGE STATE FAIR SNUB

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Eugene E. Irwin.

What the G. O. P. arrangements committee said was an iron-clad agreement with the fair managers to permit party workers free access to the big grandstand was broken. State police barred the gates. Only those who paid admission fees were admitted, and they were few. Indignant hundreds were milling at the barriers when Richard J. Lyons, senatorial nominee, and other party leaders drove down the race track to the stands.

Word of the trouble reached Eugene E. Irwin, fair manager, at about the time a squad of G. O. P. workers took matters in their own hands and directed the crowd to brush past the police. Irwin arrived at that moment and waved the police aside. Thus the crowd reached the stands without violence.

Speakers in Angry Mood.

But this was not the conclusion of the incident.

Lyons leaped from his car and confronted Irwin as the latter was mounting the steps to the speaker's platform.

"You ordered them open after we tore them down," Lyons said. "You never showed any one a courtesy in your life."

By this time the crowd was pouring in. Irwin stepped to the microphone.

"The gates have been opened for five minutes," he announced. "The ticket takers are allowing all to come in."

"From the Republican side," he said, "let it be known that the gates were not open when we entered. The Republican auto parade was broken into several sections. The band we were promised for the parade hasn't arrived."

Band Shows Up Late.

Then down the track came a band. "Here it is," Judge Deboice added. "We thank the fair management for its promptness."

Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, co-chairman of the Republican Day committee, declared there had been a very definite understanding that the grandstand gates were to be open to all comers.

"The understanding was with Irwin, director of agriculture; J. H. Lloyd, and with Gov. Henry Horner," he declared. "I'm not ready yet to fix the blame. But one thing is certain: In 1941 there will be a Republican administration to guide the fair, and we'll give a demonstration of real sportsmanship then."

Lyons pulled no punches when he began to talk. By that time the big stand was filling rapidly.

"I lay the blame for this incident," he said, "on a former Republican renegade, the fair manager [Irwin], who now is a patriotic pay roller, and on Henry Horner's cossacks [the state police]."

Urged On by Listener.

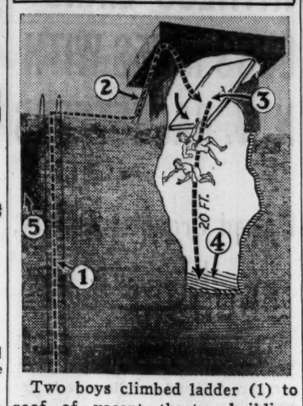
After the speaking, Irwin told reporters he had given the order late last night for the grand stand gates to be kept open. It went to R. E. Davis, superintendent of the stands. Davis refused to answer queries, referring questioners back to Irwin. State police on duty at the gates said their orders to prohibit all those without tickets came from Capt. Louis D. Barnhoft. Capt. Barnhoft said he had not issued any such orders and didn't know where they came from.

Simon E. Lantz, candidate for congressman at large, told the crowd: "You may have had trouble in reaching your seat today, but you'll be able to get to the ballot box in November."

Tomorrow at Democratic day the governor and Senator James Hamilton Lewis will be the principal speakers. Mayor Kelly of Chicago will be the third orator and his appearance will give the harmony motif for the scene.

Two Boys Injured



Two boys climbed ladder (1) to roof of vacant theater building, mounted another ladder and slipped under tent-like top of ventilator shaft (2). They dropped to a check draft (3) which had been left closed. The check draft latch gave way and the boys plunged to a floor below (4). One, whose arm was broken, managed to crawl out and summon help for his companion, who suffered a leg fracture. The latter was placed on a plank and scooted down a ladder placed to window (5).

Two boys, 14 years old, were injured yesterday when they fell fifteen feet down a ventilator shaft in the New Apollo theater, 1538 North Pulaski road. They landed on rafters above the stage. They are Dewey Bennett, 1534 North Pulaski road, who broke his right arm, and Donald Juricek, 949 North Mayfield avenue, who suffered a broken leg. The boys had climbed an outside ladder to the top of the shaft, then descended the inside framework. Half way down they stepped on a ventilator door. It fell open under them. The Bennett boy crawled out a window and shouted for help. Firemen carried the boys out.

REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENTS CUT 9 MILLIONS

A reduction of $8,987,629 in the 1937 assessed valuation of land, buildings and railroad properties in Cook county was announced yesterday by the board of tax appeals. Emmett Whealan and Paul Drymalski, members of the board, recently concluded hearings on 19,066 complaints against the assessment. Reductions were allowed in 9,906 cases. The assessed valuation prior to the hearings was $1,704,758,763. This figure was cut to $1,695,771,134.

Grand Junction, Tenn., Aug. 17.—(AP)—A country doctor gave a picnic yesterday for some of the 1,500 babies he has delivered in the last twenty-five years.

Host to several hundred, ranging from pink cheeked babies to young men and women, Dr. Leon Pope, 52 years old, mused: "It's a funny thing, but folks will pay for their babies quicker than for other medical services."

He figured he has collected for about 75 per cent of his maternity cases. He said doctors stand the poorest chance of all professional men of getting paid. "I would like to see federal aid given to the physician," he added.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

ANNIVERSARY

By CALEB

MR. MARSHALL FIELD, twenty-two years old when he came to Chicago, was still three years older than the city itself—an important index to his character. Although he brought few worldly possessions with him from New England, in his mind and spirit were two rare possessions: vision and leadership.

To a young man devoid of either quality Chicago in 1856 might have seemed unprepossessing. To young Marshall Field it was the important gateway to a great and growing Northwest, peopled with men and women whose very presence bespoke enterprise and courage.

Whenever the two gifts of vision and leadership are bestowed by nature on a single individual, unusual events portend. For though they are remarkable enough when possessed singly, in combination they are the leaven of achievement.

In Mr. Field's case the leaven was not slow in working. Almost immediately he demonstrated a marked ability to plan great things, and project his ideas so that he soon allied himself with men whose experience and talents greatly extended and supplemented his own—the ultimate test of leadership.

His foresight was strongly implemented by able assistance and cooperation. Men respected his ability—but they went a great deal further—they had faith enough to accompany him where they themselves could not clearly discern the path ahead, never hesitating or holding back.

This ability to inspire and lead others was dominant among the many strong characteristics Marshall Field possessed. Today, years after his death, men who knew him speak with detailed recollection and deep feeling of his inspiring presence. Indeed, no one can remain for long in this business today without sensing vividly his presence in spirit.

It is impossible to recall Mr. Field's leadership without remembering his vision as well—his indomitable will to lead his organization in growth, expansion and better service. The memories and awareness of his continuing influence in this business impose on all of us the unending responsibility of improvement and steady advance.

On this, the one hundred and fourth anniversary of his birth, we find ourselves keenly aware of his precepts, example and stern adherence to the duty of Moving Forward.

ACT TO COMPEL OPERATION OF N. SHORE LINE

Wisconsin Commission Is Asked to Intervene.

The Wisconsin Public Service commission today will consider intervention in the strike that has tied up the North Shore Electric line for two days. A message to the mortgage bondholders' committee in Milwaukee last night said the commission will study a plea by the bondholders that it force the road to resume operations.

The bondholders yesterday sent this plea to both the Wisconsin commission and the Illinois commerce commission. The bondholders hinted that Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver for the railroad, had exceeded authority in taking action that the committee said amounts to shutting down the line.

Want Order Modified.

Attorney William Ihrig of Milwaukee, acting for the bondholders, said trustees of the two mortgage bond issues will be asked to join in requesting Federal Judge Will M. Sparks to modify his order permitting Col. Sprague to cut wages 15 per cent. "It has reached a result the court surely did not intend," Ihrig said.

Ihrig also said that a report by T. C. Hamilton, Chicago examiner of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, showed that the road is overloaded by $96,000 a year in management personnel.

"The road is capitalized at 44 million dollars, but the outstanding 16 millions in bonds are more than the property is worth," Ihrig added. He said that reports of an attempt to close down the road and sell it for junk prices have prevailed for years. He said his committee was organized partly as a result of such stories.

Meantime, the service remained at a standstill last night despite negotiations. Ten thousand commuters to Chicago were using other means of getting to and from their work. Federal Conciliator Harry E. Scheck said he is to meet Col. Sprague at 10 a. m. today to ask him if he has any offer to the unions. He will then ask if the company will arbitrate. If answers to these questions are not satisfactory, Scheck said he will ask Sprague if he will confer with the unions.

The stands of the various parties involved in the dispute were summed up in these statements:

COL. SPRAGUE—I am no Moses. I cannot smite the rock and get cash. Nor am I Harry Hopkins nor Harold Ickes, to pull it out of a hat. The conflict between the unions stands in the way of peace.

Wants Arbitration.

ARTHUR KJELLQUIST [president of local 900 of the Amalgamated, the union that held a contract with the road for nineteen years]—All the company has to do is to prove before an arbitrator that it hasn't the money. Until it does it's still a lockout. The contract that expired May 31 provided for an arbitrator. We still want that.

BERNARD J. FALLON [executive officer for Receiver Sprague]—Arbitration was provided under a contract that has expired. You don't arbitrate contracts. We are offering a new one with a 15 per cent wage cut. We have no money. There's no way to get any. For six years we've given the men all we took in. We are still offering to give what we get.

300 Lose Jobs Tonight.

Col. Sprague yesterday gave notice to some 300 employés—clerks and supervisors who are members of no union—that their services will end tonight. "No guarantee as to re-employment can be given at this time," the notice read.

The receiver said efforts to get money to tide the company over at the present wage scale for two months, until there is an expected upturn in business, have proved fruitless. "I can't even sell receiver's certificates," he said.

$250,000 BUILDING IS DEDICATED AT CHICAGO AIRPORT

The latest addition to the Chicago airport, the new $250,000 operation building of United Air Lines, was dedicated yesterday noon. The ceremony was a feature of Chicago Air week, sponsored by Mayor Kelly's New Century committee.

The building, long and low of limestone and glass and as streamlined as the new transport planes, houses 140 employés. Soundproof and air conditioned, it has an eight room medical unit and a complete kitchen, as well as operation and engineering departments. The control tower at the hop, however, as a dummy.

Hears of Detectives' Suspension; Gives Up

The prisoner who escaped from two detectives Aug. 6 surrendered yesterday. He had heard they were suspended because he got away. The detectives are Glenn Crockett and John L. McDonald, both colored, of the Wabash avenue station. The obliging prisoner is Dennis Alston, 20 years old, colored, of 5420 Prairie avenue. He ran out the back door of a radio shop, where he had gone with the detectives to show them where he disposed of articles taken in a burglary. Crockett and McDonald are to appear before a police trial board next Wednesday.

WITNESS LINKS BOSS HINES WITH N. Y. RACKETEERS

Helped Organize Lottery, He Swears.

"I don't know," answered Weinberg.

Stryker's move in attacking the state's witness is expected to continue throughout the trial. Most of the fifty-five witnesses Dewey will call to the stand were mixed up in the policy racket and have unsavory records.

Weinberg, a heavy set individual with iron gray hair, related at the outset of his appearance on the stand that he had been called to the meeting by Schultz to explain what would be required in the form of protection for the policy or numbers game industry. The meeting took place in an apartment near the Harlem or colored section of the city. Empty liquor glasses were on a table.

Hines was in the apartment along with the late Dutch Schultz, whose real name was Arthur Flegenheimer, the witness said. Also present was "Bo" Weinberg, the witness' brother who is believed to have been killed by underworld figures and his body now in a concrete coffin at the bottom of the East river.

Says He Outlined Needs.

George Weinberg, who at the time of the meeting was the proprietor of a small policy bank, said he told Hines the difficulties of the business that would have to be surmounted.

"I told him we had to protect our people from going to jail, to fix things in the Magistrates' court, and show the people who were working for us that they would be protected."

"Did Hines say anything?" asked Dewey.

"He said he could handle it all right," replied the witness. "He said he couldn't control all the police, but he could help a lot in that connection."

"What did Schultz say at this meeting?" inquired Dewey.

"Schultz said, 'I'll pay Mr. Hines $1,000 now, $500 a week, and any other reasonable amounts.'"

Policy Banker on Stand.

The appearance of Weinberg on the stand resulted from a ruling of Justice Pecora who decided that Dewey would have to furnish at the outset some proof of the conspiracy charged against Hines. Wilfred Brunder, a former policy banker who was driven out of business by the Schultz gang, was taken off the stand and Weinberg put on.

Weinberg's testimony came in the afternoon session after Dewey had completed his opening statement.

Dewey said he had promised the three defendants who have pleaded guilty to the conspiracy with Hines that he would recommend leniency for them if they would tell the truth. Besides Weinberg, the other two are J. Richard ["Dixie"] Davis, Schultz's attorney, and Harry Schoenhaus, one of the ganster's lieutenants.

Tells of Racket's Inception.

Dewey talked in calm and measured tones. He stood in front of a small table placed below the jury box and occasionally referred to notes and documents placed there. The prosecutor smiled pleasantly to the jury as he outlined his case.

Dutch Schultz hit upon the idea of taking over the policy game in 1931, according to Dewey, but had to put off the scheme until 1932, because he had a gang war with the late "Baby-Faced" Vincent Coll, who was assassinated in a telephone booth.

Hines attended the organization meeting in March of 1932, Dewey said, at which Schultz and his gang lieutenants mapped out plans for moving into the policy game field. Soon after Hines began wielding his political influence, the prosecutor remarked, the number of arrests on policy charges was shaved in half.

Refers to Court Dismissals.

Dewey related that after the Hines and Schultz merger clear cut cases of lottery law violations, obtained in raids on the biggest lottery banks, were dismissed in the courts.

"The fix was in," he remarked, "and the gang demonstrated it to all Harlem.

The daily volume of policy wagers rose from between $20,000 and $25,000 to as high as $64,000 and the annual turnover for the gang actually was upwards of $20,000,000, Dewey went on. Five thousand persons were working in the big criminal enterprise.

Former District Attorney Dodge, reached tonight by telephone at his summer home at Blue Point, N. Y., denied Dewey's charge that "the Dutch Schultz mob" had contributed to Dodge's campaign funds when the latter ran for district attorney in 1933.

In reply to a question whether the money might have been contributed without his knowing about it, Dodge said:

"I don't think any of it came in. I think I would have heard of it."

operated by Levin and Frank [Chew Tobacco] Ryan.

This Rialto resort was selected as the most notorious of the forty or more loop betting rooms and as one operated by "The Syndicate."

After Capt. Gilbert's helpers finished their ax work Levin and Ryan were wholly out of business. Their place was in ruins.

Cut and Chop 90 Minutes.

The men cut and chopped for ninety minutes. They split the furniture into kindling. They pounded brass rails into twisted junk. They left nothing in one piece, nothing unmarred. They broke walls and windows.

"Is it legal to smash up a place like this?" Capt. Gilbert was asked.

"We entered this place as policemen," Gilbert answered, demolishing a water fountain with a swing of his club. "We saw a violation and made an arrest. If the place falls apart later it is none of my business."

More than 200 patrons were chased out by Gilbert. These stood out in front betting among themselves on where Courtney would strike next; whether the town is to be shut down or whether this was just another raid that will blow over.

Told They're Through.

But out at the criminal courts building, where Levin and Ryan were taken, they were told. "You're through in Chicago."

Levin said he didn't know any politicians and didn't even know the police captain of the district. Ryan said he knew the captain all his life and was a member of the First Ward Democratic club. He referred to former Ald. Michael Kenna as Ald. McKenna. Both denied paying any money to policemen or politicians but said they gave a lot to charity.

Policeman, Suspended as Alien, Seeks Citizenship

Sergt. Albert Groote of the Oak Park police force yesterday filed a petition for naturalization with immigration authorities. Sergt. Groote, who was born in The Netherlands, came to this country when he was 14 years old and believed he was a citizen. He was suspended a week ago when his status as an alien was learned. He seeks to become naturalized to retain both his job and his pension rights. He served in the United States army during the war and has been on the Oak Park force sixteen years.

TEACHER IS IMPROVING AFTER BEING TAKEN, POISONED, FROM TRAIN

Miss Mary E. Powell, 35 years old, of Perry, Mo., a school teacher, was recovering last night in the Berwyn hospital. She was removed from a Burlington railroad train at La Grange Tuesday while leaving Chicago en route to her home. Physicians said she took poison.

Miss Powell declined to explain her act, but relatives said she had been in poor health. Miss Powell recently resigned her job at the Perry school. She said she intended to teach in North Carolina.

She is the daughter of Sidney G. Powell, a prominent Missouri stock raiser. Her mother, an invalid, was not notified of her daughter's condition.

POLICE ASKED TO RE-ARREST AN ALLEGED MORON

Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin asked county highway police yesterday to re-arrest Edward Wozsniak, 14504 Cleveland avenue, Posen, on charges brought by a Midlothian girl, 12 years old. Sherwin said Wozsniak would be taken to the state's attorney's sex offense bureau today for further investigation. Wozsniak is 22 years old.

The girl told Justice of the Peace Walter Dohl of Bremen township Tuesday that Wozsniak had dragged her into the weeds at 147th and Albany streets in Midlothian on Aug. 8. The judge found Wozsniak guilty of assault and battery and fined him $15. Wozsniak was then given two months to pay and turned loose.

8,000 MUSICIANS READY FOR NIGHT OF THE FESTIVAL

Fete in Soldiers' Field to Draw 100,000.

Festival Tickets!

Reserved seats for the Chicagoland Music Festival are now on sale at 50 cents and $1 each. Call at the Chicago Tribune public service bureaus, 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower lobby.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

The greatest of all the Chicagoland Music Festivals will be presented Saturday night in Soldiers' field.

This year in addition to presenting a colorful musical pageant with a cast of 8,000, the festival will give 100,000 persons a closeup view of young Douglas Corrigan, America's air hero of the hour. The flyer who started for California and landed in Ireland will be greeted before the festival throng by Mayor Kelly.

Climax to City's Welcome.

It will be the climax to Corrigan's Chicago welcome and it will be the climax, too, to eight years of Chicagoland Music Festivals.

The festival always has offered one outstanding star in addition to its thousands of bandsmen, massed choruses and individual singers. This will be true this year. The musical star who will be presented has won the admiration of the nation in the short time he has been here. He is Alec Templeton, Great Britain's famous blind pianist.

The magic by which he blends songs that are vastly different in tempo and mood will be demonstrated for the audience. The audience itself will choose the songs Templeton will play.

Thousands Prepare for Fete.

But enough for the headliners. During the last six months, throughout Chicagoland and beyond its borders, thousands of musicians have been preparing to make the festival the spectacle that it is. In twenty-five states and in several provinces of Canada musicians have been getting ready.

Probably the greatest single spectacle Saturday night will be the massed accordion band of 1,500 members. Never, anywhere, have so many accordionists been brought together. The task of selecting them and training them for their seven minutes in Soldiers' field is an achievement.

It was one man's idea and he has done most of the preparatory work. He is Capt. Howard Stube, who for several years has been in charge of the festival instrumental contests.

Arranges Two Numbers.

He arranged the two numbers that will be played, adapting them especially to so large an organization. He took into consideration also that there should be other instruments to give background and rhythm to the music of the accordions.

He will use twenty tubas—bass horns—twenty snare drums, and a bass drum with cymbals. The men picked for the band were not just accordion owners. He insisted that they know how to play them well.

Another of the individuals who will contribute much toward the success of the festival this year is Oscar Anderson, who will direct 1,000 high school bandsmen in their number. These musicians—both boys and girls—were assembled by Miss Helen Howe, director of music in the Chicago public schools.

It will be an evening of massed musical spectacles, starting soon after the show opens. The first of these will be entrance of 1,600 bandsmen, playing the Chicagoland Festival march. Some of these bands will have won honors in the festival contests and some of them will be there as guests.

Play Sousa March.

When they have all entered the arena they will stand in the center of the field, and under the direction of Harold Bachman will complete the Festival march. Then Capt. Charles O'Neill will take the baton and lead them in the thrilling King Cotton march by Sousa.

This will be in the center of the field. Around the track there will be action, too. The 125 baton whirlers who have been chosen throughout Chicagoland will be there doing their slickest twirling.

Reherse Sections Separately.

But back to the bands. You may wonder how they go about rehersing an organization as large as the high school massed band. It's fairly simple. On one night all the cornet players are rehersed. On another all the trombonists learn their parts; and so on. Finally they all try it together.

But that is only the rehersal. One of the biggest jobs connected with the festival is the handling of the large groups in Soldiers' field on the big night. So many events are crowded into the two hours and 41 minutes between 7:25 and 10:06 p. m. that timing must be perfect.

There can be no delays. And the man who handles the field events is Fred Miller who has a genius for managing crowds. He also will supervise the historical pageant, which in music and drama, depicts life in America from the civil war days through the gay nineties.

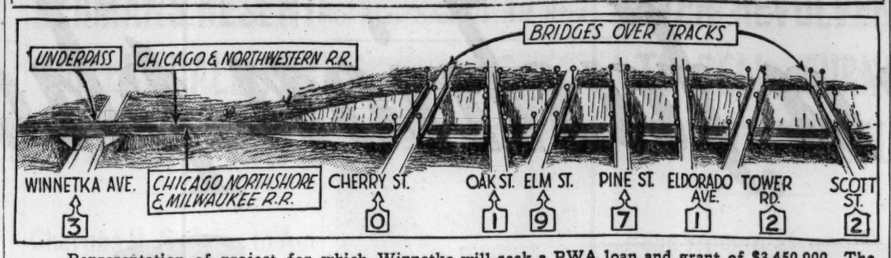
Associated with Mr. Miller in handling the pageant is Jack Higgins of the Chicago park district recreation department.

As thrilling as this massed music is, there is another organization that has been there year after year and its playing is one of the high spots of the show. This is the Festival Symphony orchestra under the direction of Henry Weber.

The cost of presenting this great orchestra runs into the thousands of dollars. It is one of the largest single items of the $30,000 that is spent each year to stage the festival by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

The show in Soldiers' field each August has become the world's greatest annual mass music event.

Plan for Winnetka Railroad Grade Separation



Representation of project for which Winnetka will seek a PWA loan and grant of $3,450,000. The diagram is not drawn to scale. The figures designate the number of deaths at each crossing in the last twenty-three years.

Approved by Council

The village of Winnetka will apply for a federal loan and grant totaling $3,450,000 in the next few days to finance a complete railroad grade separation project through the center of the community. Frederick Dickinson, village attorney, made this announcement yesterday.

The village, he said, will ask the Public Works administration for a 45 per cent grant of $1,552,500 and a loan of $1,897,500. The village council on Tuesday authorized the application and approved engineering details prepared by Charles DeLeuw and company of Chicago.

The rights-of-way of two railroads—the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee and the Chicago and North Western—run parallel through Winnetka. According to village officials, more than 30 persons have been killed in crossing accidents in the last 23 years.

The plan provides for eight highway crossings in the village, one subway underpass, and seven overhead bridges. In addition there would be four pedestrian crossings.

SEEK PWA GRANT TO BUILD 6 NEW CHICAGO BRIDGES

A proposal to seek $2,287,264 from the Public Works administration for the construction of six new bridges was referred to a subcommittee yesterday by the city council finance committee. The total cost of the projects would be $5,432,264, of which the city would supply $3,145,000 from its share of the motor fuel tax fund.

The proposed bridges and the costs are:

	City's share.	PWA grant.
E. 130th street	$ 360,000	$ 261,816

BOWLER TO FIGHT FOR WEST SIDE STREET PROGRAM

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] told the city council finance committee yesterday that he is still seeking a street improvement project to aid west side motorists which could be substituted for the proposed Wacker drive extension from Michigan avenue to Field boulevard. A PWA grant of $1,252,636 has been made on the $3,000,000 project but will be rescinded if work is not started by Aug. 29.

"It would be just as well for us to lose the federal money to save the city funds for the projects that are really needed," Bowler asserted. "I'll never vote for lake front improvements until something is done for the west side."

City officials had planned to switch projects, using the PWA grant for a west side project, but learned several days ago that this is not possible. Regular applications for new projects must go through the usual channels without reference to grants already made.

COUNCIL AMENDS APPLICATION FOR RFC PAVING LOAN

The city council yesterday amended an application for a $3,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The amendment provides for payment out of the vehicle tax fund in two years instead of ten. The money will be used to finance the city's share of a street paving program by the Works Progress administration.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt said the loan is necessary to keep WPA workers from returning to the relief rolls in a few weeks when the present paving program ends. The original terms of the loan application, filed July 6, were not acceptable to the RFC, it was explained.

The city must furnish materials, equipment, and all the skilled laborers, including thirty gangs to lay asphalt. The WPA will furnish all the unskilled labor—about 60,000 men. The work would take nearly six months.

ACQUITTAL ENDS A SOLEMN TRIAL FOR DOG SLAYING

Witnesses Disagree Over Character of Deceased.

With all the solemnity of a murder case, Leo Heinz Sr. was tried yesterday for killing a dog. Character witnesses for the state testified that the dog's bark was worse than its bite. And a boy who had been bitten testified that the dog's bite was worse than its bark, or felt worse, anyway.

Attorneys had scarcely finished their arguments when Judge Robert Jerome Dunne announced his verdict: "Not guilty."

Heinz, who is 47 years old, is street commissioner of Niles Center. For many years before he shot the dog last April 18, he was a close friend of the dog's owner, Kenneth Emerson, and Emerson's father, George Emerson.

Indicted by Grand Jury.

The indictment on which Heinz was tried charged the malicious killing of a domestic animal. It is said to be the first indictment of the kind ever returned by a Cook county grand jury. The defense had unsuccessfully sought to have the indictment quashed on the ground that the dog, Patsy, was not a domestic animal, but a household pet.

Testimony was that Patsy, a German shepherd dog, annoyed Heinz while he was directing street repair work near the Emerson home at 9256 Prairie road, Niles Center, and that Heinz went home, got his shotgun, and killed the dog when it annoyed him again.

Shot As It Rushes at Him.

Heinz said Patsy was in the street. He said he beat the dog off the first time, and warned the elder Emerson he would shoot it if it annoyed him again. When he came back with his gun, Heinz said, Patsy rushed at him and he fired.

In reply to the state's character witnesses, Emmet Byrne of the defense counsel called Raymond Schmitz, 19 years old, of 1108 Washington street, Evanston. Schmitz testified that the dog pulled him off his bicycle last January and bit through his trousers and shorts. He exhibited the holes to prove it.

Had Heinz been convicted, he could have been sentenced to a maximum of three years in prison and fined $1,000.

DEMANDS HIS BRIDE AT POINT OF KNIFE; HE'LL BE OUT SOON

Since the days of his fifth grade romance Lawrence Snodgrass, 19 years old, has loved Mary Gross, 18. And he wants to marry her. But somehow Lawrence, who lives at 1442 East 68th street, got the idea that Mary's father didn't like him.

Lawrence stuck his hunting knife in his belt last night and went to the Gross home at 1428 East 67th place. Flashing the blade before the startled father and daughter, Lawrence declaimed: "Do I, or don't I marry your daughter?"

Mr. Gross called the police. They took Lawrence to the station. Mr. Gross said he liked the young man, but thought he was too young to consider marriage. Besides, added Mr. Gross, Lawrence certainly took an odd way to ask for parental consent. Mary said she still loves Lawrence.

SLAYER OF TWO CHILDREN TAKES OWN LIFE IN JAIL

Charles Joksus, who beat his two small children to death twenty-four hours after he had been released from the state insane asylum at Kankakee, hanged himself yesterday in his cell at the county jail. He had made a noose from towels.

Joksus attacked the youngsters with a hammer in their home at 536 West 33d street on June 2. His wife, Anna, is still in the County hospital as a result of injuries he inflicted before she escaped from the home and ran in her night clothes to get help.

Stable Owner and Trainer Robbed on Way to Track

L. Beyda, 4900 Blackstone avenue, a race horse owner, and his trainer, William Cory, were robbed of $130 and a ring worth $2,000 yesterday by three men who waylaid them on the way to the Washington Park track. The robbery occurred at Halsted street and Chicago road north of Chicago Heights. Cory lives at the Thomas hotel in Chicago Heights.

HOURS for a fashion photograph

● Twenty-four hours a day, every day in the year, members of the Chicago Tribune's crack staf of 24 news photographers (at right) are ready to face the severest hardships and to brave any physical danger in order that Tribune readers may see the pictures of news happenings as they happen. Easter parade or gangster chase, in their code there is no alibi for a missed picture. No matter how difficult the assignment, they have the skill and perseverance which enables them to deliver the goods.

...a SPLIT SECOND for a news shot!

What the advertiser gets out of a newspaper depends on what the editor puts into it. The quality and variety of its news and feature photographs are another reason why the Tribune has more readers and prints more advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE holds and builds reader interest because it has swiftly utilized each new development in modern journalism—and because its own pioneer activities have contributed many important advances.

Photographs are a notable example. The Tribune printed its first black and white photograph in 1897. From then on, use steadily increased until in 1922 the Tribune launched the now widely followed practice of printing a full back page of photographs daily.

In 1915 photographs printed in rotogravure first appeared in the Sunday Tribune. Coloroto printing—a Tribune invention—appeared in 1922. Four-color process printing on newsprint by high speed news presses—another great development—started in 1936.

Every day the Tribune draws on sources throughout the world. To supplement the photographs taken by its own staf, it buys from studios, agencies and free lance cameramen. Readers get A. P. wire photos and the exclusive shots sent in by Tribune foreign correspondents.

Photographs that appear in the Tribune pass requirements as rigid as those governing Tribune news dispatches. They are changed from edition to edition of each day's issue, being replaced as quickly as new and better photographs become available.

Thus photographs in black and white and in color help intensify the reader interest of the hundreds of thousands of Chicago's families who turn every day of the year to the Tribune for its news stories, editorials, comics, and helpful feature departments. With the result that during the official 6 month period ended March 31, 1938, the Tribune delivered over 690,000 circulation in Chicago and suburbs every day of the week—from 242,000 to 477,000 more than other Chicago newspapers.

Because the Tribune is most successful in selling its own product in the Chicago market, it is the advertising medium best able to help advertisers sell theirs.

Retail advertisers recognized this fact by placing in the Tribune during the first six months of this year 63.5% more advertising than they placed in the second Chicago newspaper. General advertisers placed 49.9% more in the Tribune than in the second Chicago newspaper.

Regardless of the product you want to sell to Chicago's families, the Chicago Tribune is the logical medium around which to build your advertising program.

Rush Production of Self-Loading Rifles.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The United States is rushing the manufacture of the deadliest military rifle ever perfected. It is the goal of the army to have 200,000 of the new rifles available for use.

Seven thousand and five hundred of the new rifles are in the hands of troops. The weapon makes each man a virtual machine gunner. It is semi-automatic and fired by a trigger. Eight pulls will exhaust its magazine. When the eighth shot is fired the bolt is open and the magazine ready to receive a new slip of eight .30 caliber cartridges.

Replaces Springfield Rifle.

The Springfield rifle will be replaced by the new weapon. It also is fired by a trigger, but each shot required drawing back the bolt and ramming in a new cartridge. The new rifles differ from fully automatic weapons, such as machine guns, in that machine guns fire until the magazine is empty on a single, steady pull of the trigger.

The first of the new rifles, largely hand made, cost $150 each. Under the six million dollar appropriation of the last congress for tools and equipment, the weapons will be made for less than $50 each.

The army formerly was able to make 7,500 rifles a year. It hopes to treble the output.

One Man Equals Five.

The new rifle makes each soldier the equal of five soldiers equipped with Springfields, according to the war department. With the new weapon a trained soldier can fire 100 aimed shots a minute under extraordinary circumstances and the weapon can keep up a fire of thirty shots a minute without overheating.

The weapon was developed and perfected in the belief that despite all the new war machines, war ultimately boils down to the armed man who defends or takes a piece of ground.

For more than thirty years the ordnance department had been trying to obtain a good self-loading rifle. For a time the army considered reducing the caliber of the semi-automatic weapon to .276 as against the .30 of the Springfield. The idea has been abandoned.

Similar to Old Weapon.

Maj. G. H. Drewry recently reported the new weapon far superior to the bolt action Springfield. It approximates the Springfield in weight and length. It weighs nine pounds and is forty-three inches over all.

After the first shot is fired gas from the explosion operates the reloading device. The new rifle has seventy-two parts. The care it requires is no greater than that for the Springfield. No special tools are needed for taking the weapon apart or cleaning it. Its life is estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000 shots.

The new weapon has less recoil than the Springfield. Six hundred rounds at thirty shots a minute have been fired by a soldier without undue fatigues. Such firing with a Springfield would be impossible.

It will be years before the army and National Guard are armed with the new rifles. The Springfield rifle will not be declared obsolete and sold at reduced price until the army and National Guard are fully equipped with the new weapons.

ARABS EXPLODE LAND MINE AND KILL 2 SOLDIERS

JERUSALEM, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Two British soldiers were killed and two were wounded today when Arabs exploded a land mine beneath a military car traveling between Nablus and Jenin. A Jewish police inspector and five members of his family were kidnaped by an Arab band which broke into the Athlit labor camp near Haifa. A British police inspector and an Arab warden were wounded during the raid.

Two Held to Grand Jury for Burglarizing Boys' Club

Hayes. They are Peter Bokun, 19 years old, 6627 South Hermitage avenue, and John Katosh, 17, of 6519 Wood street. A third defendant is to be arraigned in the Juvenile court. Cash and equipment worth $1,300 were stolen from the club. Most of it has been recovered.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Route of March

Dotted line marks route to be taken by 61st Coast artillery on motorized march from Fort Sheridan to Fort Bragg. The first troops will leave Tuesday. The largest anti-aircraft maneuvers in the history of the army are to be held at Fort Bragg.

FORT SHERIDAN UNIT TO JOIN AIR DEFENSE GAMES

Artillery to Roll 1,300 Miles for Battle.

The 61st coast artillery, anti-aircraft unit at Fort Sheridan, will leave soon for Fort Bragg, N. C., to take part in the greatest air defense maneuvers ever held in the United States. All anti-aircraft units but the one stationed on the west coast will join in defense of important points within a radius of 150 miles of Fayetteville, near the North Carolina fort.

About 400 men and 90 machines will take part in the 1,300 mile motorized march from Fort Sheridan to the battle scene, according to Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commander of the 6th corps area.

Vanguard Leaves Tuesday.

The first contingent, about 80 men, will leave next Tuesday and the rest will begin the march a week later. Col. A. G. Campbell is in command of the unit. It will return to Illinois on Oct. 17.

The march will take about eight days, with stopovers approximately 150 miles apart. The first stop will be in Syracuse, Ind.

Other stops will be made at Bellefontaine, O.; Parkersburg, W. Va.; South Charleston, W. Va.; White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.; Martinsville, Va., and Greensboro, N. C.

The mimic attack, waged by army pursuit and bombing planes, is intended to demonstrate the efficiency of the country's anti-aircraft defense as well as its mobility.

Sound Call for Volunteers.

The civilian population in the embattled area has been warned of the maneuvers. Volunteers have been called for, and the army defense will be augmented by nonmilitary telephone, telegraph, and radio operators, as well as reserve officers. At least 2,000 officers and enlisted men are expected to take part.

The last motor march taken by the Fort Sheridan unit was in March. Then the 61st coast artillery traveled into Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and Missouri.

SOVIET ELECTS SUPREME COURT OF 45 MEMBERS

MOSCOW, Aug. 17—(AP)—The two houses of soviet Russia's parliament, sitting in joint session, today elected a supreme court of forty-five members. The action followed approval of a law yesterday "strengthening" the soviet court system to conform with principles of the new Stalinist constitution.

Members of the court were chosen for five year terms. Ivan Terentievich Golyakov, who was once a shepherd, was elected president of the body. Golyakov, now 50 years old, took an active part in the bolshevist revolution of 1917.

The soviet of the union and the soviet of nationalities also elected twenty "peoples' assessors" to the supreme court.

Whooping Cough Epidemic Grows; Report 76 New Cases

In the 24 hours ending at 9 a. m. yesterday, 76 new cases of whooping cough were reported to the board of health. This brought the total for 1938 to 3,702, compared with 2,343 during the corresponding period last year.

GERMANS RESENT HULL'S CALL FOR WORLD PEACE

Charges U. S. Tries to Act as 'Moral Preacher.'

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The foreign office today said in its official organ, Deutsche Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz, that Secretary of State Cordell Hull of the United States showed a "narrow mental horizon" in his international plea for peace over the radio last night. The inspired article left no doubt that Adolf Hitler's government represented the speech.

"Hull is following the present line of American foreign policy, which continues to move away from the much vaunted American nonintervention in the affairs of other states and particularly foreign continents," the article said.

Called "Moral Preacher."

"Its endeavors to act the rôle of moral preacher to the rest of the world are becoming more evident.

"It is impossible to overlook in Hull's speech a notable failure to understand the causes and developments of affairs outside the United States.

"To extol ideals of individual liberty as a panacea for all the ills of the world is evidence of a narrow mental horizon which is hardly calculated to attract other peoples."

The article said it was Germany's serious desire that all differences between states be settled amicably.

"However," the paper said, "it will not be easy for Hull to prove by examples of the past that the democratic world, as whose interpreter he speaks, has made serious efforts to recognize the causes of injustices or find equitable solutions to remove them.

Says United States Broke Pact.

"Only he who measures stability and prosperity in the relations between nations by the arrangements of the year 1919 [meaning the Versailles treaty] can raise up the courage to blame and reject the natural changes and imperative re-arrangements in the political world as acts of violence tending to lawlessness.

"But one needs hardly remind Hull that it was his own country that was the first that refused to be bound by the so-called peace treaties, thereby, at least in the past, keeping aloof from their evil spirit."

Sees Warning to Dictators.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The press of Europe's democracies today saw Secretary of State Hull's appeal for peace as a warning to dictatorships. Newspapers interpreted the talk as acknowledging that the United States cannot hold itself aloof from world happenings and extending "moral authority" of Hull's countrymen in a "war of principles."

FORMER SALES MANAGER WRITES OF SUICIDE PLAN

Coast guardsmen today will search Lake Michigan off Foster avenue for the body of Richard B. Cook, 36 years old. Yesterday his mother, Mrs. Blanche Cook, received a letter from her son saying he intended to commit suicide off Foster avenue. The lake was too rough for a search yesterday.

Cook lived with his parents at 6321 North Talman avenue. He was general sales manager of the B. A. Railton company, wholesale grocers, until a nervous breakdown two years ago. On July 9 he was divorced by his wife, the former Clarissa Hodder. Mrs. Cook told Summerdale police she last saw her son Tuesday at 11 a. m.

C. I. O. Workers Reject Maytag Settlement Plan

Newton, Ia., Aug. 18 [Thursday].—[Special.]—C. I. O. electrical workers whose strike in the Maytag Washing Machine company's plant here brought martial law early this morning rejected the company's settlement proposal. The vote was 622 to 0. They rejected most of the points in the proposal, one of which was a 10 per cent pay cut which caused the strike on May 9. The C. I. O. workers agreed to continue work under protest, as they have been doing since the plant was reopened Aug. 14 under martial law.

Her Story's All Wet

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
VIOLA MAHAN.

Miss Viola Mahan, 24 years old, former dice girl in a night club, sat in the detective bureau last night spinning out a maze of stories about how she got there.

The police account is that two fishermen saw a comely, red haired girl tear off her outer garments near dawn yesterday and jump into Lake Michigan at the 59th street pier. A life guard later used force to bring her back to shore.

Miss Mahan's account, which she changed hourly, is that she had gone out for an early morning walk and sat on the pier to rest. A wave brushed up, wetting her shoes, stockings and dress. "Well, there I was nearly soaked," she said, "so I decided I might as well get all wet, and I jumped in. I tried hard to swim, and then I remembered I didn't know how. Wasn't that silly?"

Today she will be arraigned in Women's court. She gave 6417 Kenwood avenue as her address, but the landlord said she moved on June 19.

Accidental Shot Wounds Woman Visitor in Home

Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, 48 years old, was accidentally shot and seriously wounded last night in the home of Mrs. Azelia Morrison, a friend, at 1722 Warren boulevard. Charles Benesh, a night watchman, was at the home to visit his baby daughter who was being cared for by Mrs. Morrison. Benesh had taken his revolver apart. As he started to put it together to go to work, it was discharged. Mrs. Brown, who lives at 628 North May street, was taken to the County hospital.

GIVEN REVOLVER TO SELL, TURNS BANDIT HIMSELF

Pays Woman $5 and Then Robs Ticket Agents.

Thomas McGrath, 17 years old, pleaded guilty yesterday to three charges of robbery with a gun. He admitted holding up women ticket agents of the Illinois Central railroad. Judge Joseph Sabath deferred sentence until Aug. 30 and ordered a further investigation.

Thomas McGrath.

Mrs. William Nolan, 5541 Everett avenue, testified she unwittingly supplied the revolver for McGrath's crimes. She said she came across the gun while moving. She asked McGrath, who delivered groceries to her home, to find a purchaser. He took it himself and paid her $5. McGrath, who said he turned to robbery after losing his job, had been living at 6426 Stony Island avenue.

TERRY DRUGGAN LOSES APPEAL TO SAVE ESTATE

Terry Druggan yesterday lost an appeal in a case that may cost him his beer-baronial estate near Lake Zurich in Lake county. The Appellate court at Ottawa affirmed a decision by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan, who ordered that Druggan's 240 acre farm be sold at auction to satisfy claims of over $30,000 unless Druggan pays. The claims were made by Hugo Pick, trustee for the holder of the mortgage.

Druggan, of a prohibition brewing firm which often clashed with the law, bought the farm in 1923. He placed it in the name of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Druggan. He contracted to pay $80,000 for it. On Oct. 17, 1936, he defaulted a claim for interest of $612 on an outstanding mortgage of $24,500.

Judge Dady authorized the foreclosure on the mortgage and the sale was ordered for last March 10, but it was halted by Druggan's appeal.

TOWN'S ONLY DOCTOR CHARGED WITH CLUB MURDER OF HIS WIFE

Brookfield, Mo., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Dr. William F. Lamance, a former boxer and the son of evangelists, was charged today with murdering his pretty wife, Ella, in the nearby town of Laclede, where they lived.

Dr. W. F. Lamance. [A.P. Wirephoto.]

Her body was found Monday on a cot in a vegetable cellar behind the Lamance home. Sherif Max Brown said the woman apparently had been beaten to death about a week ago.

Lamance, who turned to osteopathy although his father wanted him to become a minister, is the only doctor in Laclede, a town of 650. He is 34 years old and his wife was 29.

The doctor reported his wife missing only a few hours before the sherif found her body. It was learned later he had told a neighbor she had been missing since last Tuesday.

A Negro laundress told a coroner's jury that the doctor had her wash two bloodstained pillow cases last Wednesday, the day after his wife disappeared, according to his own story. The doctor did not testify.

THREE GET JAIL TERMS ON BOGUS CHECK CHARGES

Three young men who were arrested three years ago for rifling mail boxes were again in court yesterday. They were charged this time with conspiring to pass bogus checks. They are Herman Lessentien, 20 years old, of the Englewood Y. M. C. A.; John Forrester, 19, 6517 Peoria street, and Robert Burns, 18, of 3552 West 64th street. Lessentien was sentenced to two years in the Bridewell by Judge Lambert K. Hayes. Forrester and Burns both were ordered to serve four months. Lessentien admitted writing the checks. Police said he collected more than $300 in three months on them. Neither of the others shared in the loot.

Hunt Victims of Mad Dog Found to Have Had Rabies

An airdale dog ran wild yesterday near 62d and Carpenter streets and bit four persons before it was shot by the Englewood police. The dog's head was examined in the board of health laboratories, and it was found to have had rabies. Persons bitten or scratched by it were urged to report to the board offices in the city hall for anti-rabies serum.

MORE BONES ARE FOUND IN TORSO DEATH MYSTERY

Cleveland, O., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Additional bones of the twelfth victim of Cleveland's mad torso killer were found today on the city's lakefront dump. Arm, leg and rib bones of a man matched a skull found last night about 100 feet away.

The skull was found only a few hours after discovery of the eleventh victim. A woman's head and upper torso were found at the same dump. Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said none of the dismembered parts yielded a clew to their identity or that of the slayer. An even dozen bodies have been found in the three years of butchery.

Police attribute the deaths of seven men and five women since September, 1935, to a surgically skilled maniac who apparently has no other motive except a mad desire to dissect human bodies.

SHELL EXPLODES; BOY HURT.

Mitchell Tryba, 17 years old, 184 West Superior street, found a shotgun shell yesterday and wondered if it would explode if he pounded it between a couple of rocks. It did. He will recover.

LEADING AMERICA INTO WAR.

Americans who wish to keep their country from taking sides in another European war will do well to read with more than ordinary care the testimony of John P. Frey before the Dies committee. Mr. Frey is a ranking official of the American Federation of Labor. The Dies committee is investigating subversive movements of alien origin in this country.

Mr. Frey's testimony concerned communist activities in America. In May, 1937, he said, Earl Browder, the secretary of the communist party in this country, addressed a meeting of party leaders in New York, over which William Z. Foster presided. Mr. Browder had recently returned from Europe and was the bearer of the gospel from headquarters in Moscow. The instructions were to bring the C. I. O., and wherever possible the A. F. of L., under communist leadership and to use this strength not only to promote the revolution but more especially and more immediately to apply pressure to Mr. Roosevelt and thus gain increasing influence in the formation of government policy.

This strategy is based on the proposition that the Democrats to retain power must have a solid labor vote. If the leaders of labor are communists they will find themselves in a position to influence if not actually to dictate important policies of government.

What policies in this country would the communists in Russia like to influence? Unquestionably the foreign policy of the United States comes first.

Stalin would no doubt like to see communism in America, but he doesn't expect it and he isn't going to be disturbed much if he doesn't get it in the immediate future. What he is worrying about day and night is the impending war in Europe, Asia, or both. At the very least he would like to have the United States friendly to his side in the war. He would like even more to have the United States enter the war on his side.

If the communists in the United States continued to operate as the communist party they would have no influence on American foreign policy in the foreseeable future. But by making themselves the leaders of labor and therefore powerful in Democratic counsels they can be of immediate value to the soviets.

Knowing that the American people do not want to engage in another European war, the communist leaders do not lay much stress upon that aspect of their policy. They are well satisfied, however, with the direction Mr. Roosevelt is taking. The speech delivered by the President at the dedication of the Outer drive bridge in Chicago, the speech in which he declared himself in favor of joint action against aggressor nations in Europe and Asia shows how far he has already gone toward the entanglement in the affairs of the old world which the communists desire.

It is not necessary to rely upon Mr. Frey's version of Mr. Browder's speech to draw this conclusion. Mr. Browder said it over his own signature, in an article on American foreign policy published in the New Republic of Feb. 2 last. He was delighted with Mr. Roosevelt's determination to save the world [including Stalin] at our expense. He recognized the unpopularity of this neo-Wilsonianism in America and said the great task is to persuade the 27 million who voted for Mr. Roosevelt to support the foreign policy announced in the Chicago speech.

The Democratic party led us into the last war to save the world for democracy. The communists intend that the Democratic party shall again lead us into war, this time to save the world for Stalin.

MAN AS A FAILURE.

Bernard Shaw's new play, "Geneva," recently opened at the tenth Malvern festival in England. As its name suggests, it deals with the wry human comedy presented by the activities of the league of nations. Mr. Shaw's thesis and his conclusion is: "Man is a failure as a political animal."

Events have made more men than Mr. Shaw think faster of late, and profounder philosophers have found themselves doubling like a rabbit chased by the hounds of reality. Mr. Shaw might be reluctant to admit it, but it may have ripened him considerably to have been on the air, after a visit to Russia, calling the American people and other patient believers in democracy, boobs, just about two minutes before Stalin started shooting up the entire bolshevik élite, making private graveyards for people too obscure to merit public listing, and sending the Red army to the coroner and the cleaner.

"Man is a failure as a political animal" is a sentence which may tease the reader to interpret or modify according to various conclusions derived from trying times. Even in dealing with Mussolini, Hitler, and Gen. Franco, Mr. Shaw has remained cheerful, although there is nothing much in the scene at Geneva to encourage him. Man is a failure as a political animal.

Another observer, less optimistic, might cover more ground by saying man is a failure as an animal, or surrender more completely by saying he is a failure. For better or worse, take it or leave it, like it or not, the sentence really boils down to two words. Man is. When Margaret Fuller, summing up the experiences of a questing and adventurous life, exclaimed in a statement of her final creed, "I accept the universe," Thomas Carlyle remarked contemptuously, "Egad, she'd better." That wasn't a helpful suggestion, but it did contain something of finality.

THE LAWYERS AROUSED.

The convention of the American Bar association in Cleveland this year was in sharp contrast to previous sessions. The profession at last disclosed an awareness of its responsibility to the nation in a great emergency. The primary duty of lawyers is to protect individual rights against invasion by other individuals or the government itself. Recent years have seen a mushroom growth of lawless governmental agencies, without respect for the rights of citizens or the decencies of official conduct.

The bar has been slow to take alarm, though some of the more far-sighted lawyers have been resisting the tendency for many years. Mr. Gilbert Montague of New York was one of them. He recognized at once the menace to free institutions involved in NRA and Gen. Johnson's threat to "crack down." Mr. Montague saw how unjudicial were the so-called quasi-judicial boards, the alphabetical agencies which were springing up in Washington.

Efforts to rally the lawyers to oppose the trend met with little success at first. Mr. Montague was obliged to express regret at the failure of his profession to grasp its opportunity. It was not the lawyers but the press, he observed, which had assumed the leadership in the fight against tyranny.

In a lecture before the law school of the University of Michigan, heard by the entire Supreme court of the state and many members of the bar, Mr. Montague said:

"In previous struggles for human freedom and constitutional government the bar has taken the lead. But in the present crisis, due to economic conditions and to coercion, it has stood aside and the battle for freedom is being won by newspaper editors and newspaper publishers."

But at last the bar is alive to the danger and is on guard. The principal business before the Cleveland convention was the report of Roscoe Pound, dean-emeritus of the Harvard law school, and his committee on administrative law. Their report suggests how far we have already traveled in the direction of tyranny; how many of the provisions safeguarding individuals in their liberty have been disregarded.

Decisions are reached by the alphabetical bureaus without a hearing or after a hearing of only one side, the committee found. Judgments have been entered upon evidence not before the tribunal, and frequently on the basis of prejudices. Administrative boards confuse their functions as administrators with their duties as judges; they decide cases in accordance not with the law but with policy. Cases are heard by subordinates and decided by their superiors who may or may not have studied the record with proper care and who, in any event, lack the time and the judicial frame of mind required to deal fairly with the litigants. The committee noted that some of the quasi-judicial tribunals have set up arbitrary rules which serve the convenience of the administrators but prevent important interests from receiving a fair hearing. In general, there was a tendency to yield to political pressure at the expense of law and to confuse the rôles of detective, prosecutor, judge and executioner and combine all these diverse functions in one administrative organization.

These are the practices of the star chamber. Laymen and lawyers had thought that the introduction of such a régime in this country was out of the question. They were wrong. It is here and it will grow in scope and power unless the country is aroused to the danger and unless safeguards against executive tyranny are strengthened. It is good to find that at last the lawyers are awake and are determined to play their full part in the struggle.

POLICING THE TRAFIC.

The blackmailing of motorists in some of the suburban communities continues. Generally the racket is a joint enterprise of the local constable and the local magistrate. Sometimes a community consisting of a few families will be incorporated as a village and will include within its boundaries a mile of open country. The village constable hides and waits for motorists who fail to observe speed regulations which would be reasonable for a settled community but are absurd in the country. Sometimes a stop sign is so inconspicuously placed that motorists are almost certain not to see it. The constable lies in wait at such traps to flag down the victim and, with or without the coöperation of the judge, to shake the motorist down.

While this kind of thing is going on, laws which are reasonable and which would promote safety on the highways are all too often not enforced, and that happens in the city as well as the suburbs.

The remedy is an obvious one. A certain number of city and suburban policemen should be organized in a trafic patrol. Their job should be to move with the trafic, regulate it, and make arrests where serious violations are committed. These men would be in the public eye and therefore unlikely to practice extortion. They would be in a position to explain trafic laws and rules to stupid or inexperienced drivers and to help drivers in distress.

As long as we leave the enforcement of trafic laws to all policemen we shall have some policemen who neglect their duties and others who betray them.

THE BEATITUDES IN NAZILAND.

[Omaha Morning World-Herald.]

The Nazis have been rewriting the New Testament to bring it in line with the Nazi philosophy. A revised version of Christ's sermon on the mount is said to have been done by former Reich Bishop Ludwig Muller.

The beatitudes must have given him a tough time. For example, deletion would probably have been the simplest treatment for such passages as these:

"Blessed are the meek . . .
"Blessed are the merciful . . .
"Blessed are the peacemakers . . .
"Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely . . .

These seem oddly at variance with the tenets and performances of Hitlerism. But how on earth can they be twisted to fit the exigencies of the new German politics? Evidently the best thing would be just to leave them out altogether.

The Broadway wolves are baying on Orson Welles' trail because of his unprecedented success. This silenced the skeptics. . . . Because of young Welles' present plan to merge five of Shakespeare's plays into one production under the title "Five Kings," Eugene Burr, dramatic critic of the Billboard, has pronounced him "a mass murderer of the classics."

SALT IN ADDISON'S DISEASE.

LONG before we knew much about the endocrine system, which has so much to do with our well being, Thomas Addison, a London physician, described a malady involving the suprarenal glands which lie at the upper poles of the kidneys. Of course, Addison had no conception of the power of the secretion of these relatively small bits of tissue, but he observed with great accuracy the behavior of a patient unfortunate enough to harbor diseased adrenals.

In his epoch making monograph published in 1855 he wrote: "At the present moment the functions of the suprarenal capsules, and the influence they exercise in the general economy, are almost unknown." It was while studying a peculiarity of the blood, since called Addison's anemia, that he chanced upon a condition characterized by "anemia, general languor and debility, remarkable feebleness of the heart's action, irritability of the stomach, and certain changes in the color of the skin. . . . In one instance the skin was so universally and so deeply darkened that, but for the features, the patient might have been mistaken for a mulatto."

We now know so much more about the physiology and the chemistry of these structures that great progress has been made in combating the disorder. We should recall that each of these glands is composed of two parts, an outer [cortex] and an inner [medulla]. Deprived of the outside portion, we cannot live long, as its output has much to do with the concentration of blood, the excretion of nitrogenous wastes, and the handling of sodium within the body. The substance known as epinephrin is obtained from the medulla and plays an important rôle in supporting the circulation and regulating the deposit of pigment in the skin.

As a rule the trouble manifests itself from within first, later extending to the cortex. Now and then these patients will exhibit severe symptoms characterized by nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, a great loss of sodium from the body—which is usually accompanied by a profuse excretion of water—and collapse. In this upset state the kidneys take out of the blood a huge quantity of sodium, leaving an accumulation of nitrogenous wastes. As sodium is decreased so potassium is increased out of all proportion. Oncoming weakness is so typical that should the difficulty be noted, with no other affection in the picture, the possibility of Addison's disease should be considered.

The skin discoloration is described as a dirty grayish-brown, most prominent on exposed parts of the body. As a rule it is somewhat darker over bony prominences or where constricting bands of clothing have exerted pressure. Occasionally the mucous membrane within the mouth—the tongue and the gums—will exhibit brownish to purplish patches.

Omitting salt from the diet of a person with Addison's affliction is just the wrong thing to do. In fact, a crisis may be precipitated by such a step. Treatment consists, first, in supplying sodium salts and water generously, and second, the feeding of the cortex derived from animal sources. Even without this latter hormone the prompt administration of saline solution will bring about improvement, which will be maintained and continued if the cortical portion can be given. Inasmuch as tuberculosis is frequently at fault, a search should be made for this ailment elsewhere in the body and proper therapy applied.

A patient who came under my observation uses approximately a teacupful of salt in each 24 hours and is able thereby to preserve excellent health. As a rule, however, the average daily consumption need not be higher than 3 or 4 teaspoonfuls.

This management has robbed the illness of its aforetime disheartening outlook. Many of these victims can be restored to active earning capacity, although perhaps a less strenuous occupation should be found. Furthermore, if one of these individuals requires some surgical procedure, it can now be undertaken safely with the remedies at hand.

Freckles are irregular areas of tan and some individuals with sensitive skins will freckle even though there is no direct exposure to sunlight. Freckle removers are rarely satisfactory. The only sure method is to avoid bright daylight.

REPLY.

ESTATE.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother passed away in 1916. I was not quite two years old at the time. My mother was an heir to an estate in Wisconsin. There were five heirs, including my mother. At the time my mother died the property was for sale. My mother left no will. I have just learned that the property has been sold, but I was not notified and I do not know when the sale took place. 1. Can I still come in for my mother's share? 2. Is a deed legal without my signature on it? 3. Please advise me as to the law in this case. My father, who was my guardian, did not sign the deed. 4. My father did not put in a claim against the estate. E. R.

1. Yes. The statute of limitations does not run as between co-owners of undivided shares in real estate.
2. No, as we understand the facts.
3. See preceding answers.
4. In general it is not necessary for the heirs to file claims in probate proceedings.

WHY HAVE A CONGRESS?

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Quoting Roosevelt: "The duty of the senate and the house of representatives is to enact into law the interpretations of the chief executive."

Not being a politician, may I ask, why have 434 representatives, 98 senators, a speaker of the house, and a vice president at $10,000 and $15,000 a year respectively? Right here there is a potential saving of $5,620,000 a year plus the additional $12,000,000 a year allocated these members for expenses as well as the upkeep and maintenance of federal buildings housing the legislative bodies. Then there is the small matter of about $20,000,000 a year spent in this country to put these men in office, which small towns and communities pay through levies on the populace.

So, if we dispense with the formality of "rubber stamping" his interpretations, I can see a yearly saving of at least $37,000,000, or is that chicken feed?

HARK! IT'S JOB HOLDERS' GROANS

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 16.—I note with interest that state employés all over the country are jittery over the prospect that they may have to pay retroactive federal income taxes on their salaries. They are almost reconciled to the inevitable in the matter of paying hereafter, but to have the treasury assess them on bygones is agonizing. Yet I don't know why. Every one else with taxable salaries has been shelling out year by year with scarcely audible groans while state and municipal job holders have been getting away with murder. I cannot wax violently indignant over the frightful possibility of the correction of this obvious and long continued injustice to the nonoffice holders.

THE PIANO AT THE FESTIVAL.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Would it not be possible to have a piano class in the Chicagoland Festival competitions? There are so few competitions for which piano students can work and enjoy such an incentive. And this year seeing Alec Templeton is introducing "Piano" and its beauties as the program of the grand finale in Soldiers' field, wouldn't it be a good year to continue piano listing in the regular competition field?

May I take this opportunity of saying what a grand work you are doing sponsoring such a festival, aiding the growth and appreciation of good music.

A WEST SIDE MUSIC TEACHER.

SITDOWN STRIKE AND A BELLYACHE.

Minonk, Ill., Aug. 15.—I heard last night that, among others, John L. Lewis hates the American Medical association.

Perhaps the association can fix things up with him by affiliating with the C. I. O. It might cure some of this damfoolishness for him to call a sitdown strike about the time some of the New Dealers get a bad bellyache.

HOW ABOUT IT.

NEGROES AND THE JITNEYS.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Your news items about the Negro taxicab drivers' predicament tell only that portion of the story which puts an honest judge in an unfavorable light. The truth is that the fight is between the bus company and Chicago's whole Negro population. The determined effort of Negroes to stick together for economic betterment has proved so successful that the bus company has had to resort to the old imperialistic method of using the law to coerce minority groups or financially weak peoples into submission.

The number of Negroes employed by the bus company is almost nil, though there are many foreign born Europeans, unable to pronounce even street names correctly. When Negroes first began legitimately 'piling' into taxis driven by Negroes rather than patronize the buses the company put express buses through the Negro district without stopping, and a passenger unaware of this practice who tries to alight at a desired destination is given stiff answers by the bus driver.

During these sun-tan days THE TRIBUNE might do well to send such a sepia reporter to ride a few south side buses and learn both sides of the controversy.

NEITHER TAXI NOR BUS RIDER.

PROPOSES A PRIMARY REFORM.

Crystal Lake, Ill., Aug. 16.—If the decent newspapers of the country, whatever their complexion, including THE TRIBUNE, would stand with the Decatur [Ill.] Herald in the proposition so to amend party primary legislation as to have the primary nominees for all parties printed on a single ballot in party columns instead of compelling a primary voter to designate his party by asking for a separate party ballot, with the proviso that he must vote only one party, otherwise his ballot would be void, it would do much toward purifying primary elections.

The present system violates the principle of the secrecy of the ballot. It is unnecessarily expensive and provocative of political abuse.

This plan, if space for written-in names were provided, would also allow the expression of party voters for a coalition such as Congressman Ryan suggests in the Minnesota situation.

HONESTY.

WHERE ARE THE SPONSORS?

Sharon, Wis., Aug. 15.—I read in your column recently [in answer to an objection concerning our taking in more aliens than we can support] that each alien has a "sponsor." This I cannot understand. I am informed that many aliens are on our charity lists. Where are their sponsors?

Coming from England last summer I noticed such numbers of foreigners coming over to my country who [I felt sure] would never be absorbed. Let us put up the bars higher and higher.

AMERICAN.

LESS SHOUTING AND PUSHING!

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Will you please, at the last minute before the Music Festival, see that the men who have the concessions to sell candy, etc., on Saturday night at Soldiers' field are informed that the affair is a musical festival.

1. They shout during the announcements.
2. They even push you backward in your seat so that they may pass between the seats to get through to the next row.
3. Last year I asked one man courteously if he would refrain from calling while the announcements were being made, and he insultingly yelled back that maybe I did not have to earn a living, but he did.
4. If they would sell all of their goods, it would take trucks to haul it away. There seem to be as many salesmen as spectators.

I intend to request my money back and so do many of my friends this year if they are bothered as much as they have been in the last few years. When we first began attending affairs at the field it was a pleasure, but now it is a nuisance.

MRS. V. B. WHITE.

WANTS A CURB ON BICYCLISTS.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—We hear a lot about bicycle riders being hit by cars, but just what is expected of an automobile driver? I am willing to give any bicyclist as much of the road as he needs and to take special care where children are concerned, but what about these "wise guys" who deliberately try to make trouble for a driver?

Last night on Harlem avenue three men were riding bicycles through the trafic, swerving in front of cars, waving their arms and laughing at the motorists. If any dimwit cyclist imagines that I intend to wreck my car, injure my passengers and perhaps people in other cars who are obeying trafic rules, then he will realize his mistake in a hospital.

Last Sunday on Route 42A, near Willmette, two riders, a man and a woman, were riding abreast on a narrow road, holding up a half dozen cars, which must either drive about 10 miles or less or have to cut around, with the chance of a head-on smashup with cars coming from the other direction. And the smug expression on the faces of the two riders! They had their rights and by heaven they meant to assert them.

Haven't we a law against such things? I know of one—a serviceable pair of fists.

HE LIKES THE TRIBUNE.

As a lover of this city I want to thank you for helping build up, instead of trying to tear down.

I want to thank you for your Terry and the Pirates [in spite of my age] and for so many other fine features in your paper.

FRENCH GENERAL PINS MEDALS ON NAZI SEA FLYERS

Germans Acclaim Gesture of Friendship.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—French and German military leaders met as friends today in former Kaiser Wilhelm's training camp at Doeberitz, near Berlin. The Richthofen pursuit squadron, Germany's crack aviation unit, performed stunts in honor of Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, chief of staf of the French air force.

Gen. Joseph Vuillemin.

Decorates Ocean Flyers.

Gen. Vuillemin pinned the French aviation cross to the tunics of Capt. Alfred Henke, pilot, and Capt. Rudolph von Moreau, co-pilot, of the Brandenburg. The Brandenburg, a 24 passenger plane, completed a record breaking flight from Berlin to New York and return last Sunday.

The crosses were handed to the general by Col. Hubert de Geffrier, French air attaché in Berlin. Gefrier, when he unhooked the cross from his uniform, remarked with a smile: "I wore this cross for twenty years."

Accounts of this chivalrous French gesture were displayed prominently on the front pages of tonight's newspapers.

Gen. Vuillemin flew to Leipzig, where he continued his inspection of German airplane factories. He returned to the capital for a formal banquet this evening.

Hitler Inspects Troops.

After the French general left Doeberitz Reichsfuehrer Hitler arrived at the drill camp and inspected the Doeberitz training battalion. This battalion is one of Germany's crack infantry units. It is composed of veteran soldiers, mostly lance corporals.

While the reich was keeping a record number of soldiers under arms during maneuvers, it was by no means neglecting its navy.

The navy is building thirty-one U-boats in addition to thirty-seven already placed in commission. This means that seven more submarines have been added to the U-boat fleet. The last figure announced by the admiralty was a total of sixty-one submarines either under construction or in commission.

Admiralty circles said Germany now is nearing the limit permitted under the British-German naval treaty. The pact provides that Germany's submarine tonnage must not exceed 45 per cent of the British at the present time.

SPANISH FORCES BATTLE TO DRAW ON TWO FRONTS

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Weary Spanish government and rebel troops engaged in heavy fighting tonight on two fronts—the Ebro valley struggle for a few sun baked hills, and the southern front battle for the rich Almaden mercury mines.

Along the Ebro in eastern Spain the government displayed continuing strength which has enabled it to capture and hold strategic territory around Gandesa for nearly a month.

In the south the rebel Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, whose troops were said by the rebels to have captured 2,300 square miles since their offensive began last month, found the last few miles to Almaden the hardest. Quiepo de Llano's troops tried to fight their way up the valley of the Zujar river. They aimed at a little dirt road winding over the hills toward Almaden, but government resistance continued to balk capture of the valuable mines.

HANNA REITSCH.

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—One of Germany's flying maids, Hanna Reitsch, sailed aboard the liner Bremen today with her sailplane "Habicht" [Hawk] to give demonstrations at the Cleveland air races from Sept. 3 to 5. Miss Reitsch, who is 26 years old and bears the rank of captain, has won many honors in European glider competitions.

CZECHS WARNED GAP WITH NAZIS IS UNBRIDGEABLE

Germans Turn Down Prague's Terms.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 17.—The gap between the stands of the Czechoslovak government and the Sudeten German [Nazi] party on the tangled minorities problem is so wide it cannot be bridged.

This startling statement was delivered to the cabinet today by Deputy Ernst Kundt. He is chairman of the delegation of the Sudeten German party which has been clamoring for autonomy for 3,250,000 Germans.

Denounces Cabinet's Scheme.

Kundt called the government's scheme for modifying the Czechoslovak republic "a disgraceful sham and caricature of self-government."

The deputy announced the Sudeten German party's willingness to continue negotiations to settle existing differences on certain conditions. He said it would be futile to take up any question in detail or discuss financial, social, and economic aspects of the problem with a special committee.

These were matters, Kundt said, which could not be raised until the government and the Sudeten Germans have reached an agreement on fundamentals. He asserted the government had not made any concessions to the German minority.

Deputy Sounds Warning.

Kundt said the Sudeten Germans would renew discussions when the cabinet agreed to reconstruct the state along the foundation of the demands made by Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German party leader, at Carlsbad April 24.

One of the most important of these points was a demand that the Sudeten Germans be granted autonomous administration of all German districts "in all departments of public life."

A further condition for the continuation of negotiations, Kundt said, was that the government put an end to attacks in the press against the Sudeten Germans.

"Their patience is less than ours [the party leaders]," he warned. "The Sudeten Germans do not wish to be a minority. They wish to be partners in the state."

FRENCH DEMAND JAPS RELEASE JAILED GUARDS

Two Soldiers Seized After Row in Cabaret.

PEKING, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Both the French embassy and the commission of foreign diplomats which administers the Peking diplomatic quarter tonight protested to Japanese authorities against the detention of two members of the French embassy's military guard.

The protests alleged the French soldiers had been seized by armed Japanese inside the diplomatic quarters and were held by Japanese embassy police in the Japanese embassy compound. This followed an early morning fracas in a cabaret.

The Japanese refused all French requests that the soldiers be turned over to be dealt with according to their own laws. The Japanese version is that the soldiers had a fight with Japanese nationals in a carabet in which a Corean [a Japanese subject, was injured. Japanese, some in uniform, followed them into the diplomatic quarter and seized them.

Inland City Air Bombed.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 18 [Thursday]—(AP)—Japanese forces which were ordered to take Changsha, the capital of Hunan province, were bogged down today far from their objective.

The invaders' naval air force, however, raced over the heads of the struggling Japanese infantrymen and fiercely bombed the city. Changsha lies about 200 miles southwest of Kiukiang and about the same distance south of Hankow. Kiukiang is the Yangtze river base of Japanese operations against Hankow, the temporary capital of China.

"Shower Tons of Bombs."

The Japanese China sea fleet headquarters in its report on the Changsha raid said:

"Despite bad weather the flyers showered tons of bombs on Changsha's East and South rail stations, scoring direct hits and inflicting terrific damage, including damage to military warehouses."

Dispatches from Hankow said the Changsha raid was the worst the city had yet experienced.

Several schools in the city's railroad area were wrecked. Other institutions which were struck included the Christian missionary emergency refugee hospital, in which a number of refugees were reported to have been killed.

JAPAN DRAWS NEW PLAN TO TIGHTEN GRIP ON SUPPLIES

TOKIO, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The cabinet today approved a broad program drawn up by five of the most important ministers to speed the campaign in China. The program calls for more drastic economic control at home and greater pressure by armed forces.

The cabinet announcement said the fighting would continue until Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's régime has been crushed.

The foreign office spokesman declined to answer a question as to the possibility of uniting the Japanese sponsored governments of Nanking and Peking, but newspapers said the cabinet planned closer coöperation between the central and north China régimes.

THE MODERN LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGE IS BOTH PRACTICAL AND CULTURAL

It should help you achieve culture . . . it should help you to the better material things in life.

Culture is sought, not alone for culture's sake, but for everyday living as well. One can not well enjoy the fruits of culture on a mere subsistence.

So, when we say that the modern Liberal Arts College is both practical and cultural, we mean that it shows you what culture is, how to achieve it, and how to enjoy it. It teaches you to think independently and clearly . . . to approach tomorrow's unpredictable world with an open mind.

Practically, it tries to lead you to an understanding of what a good cultural background can mean to you materially . . . that it is of lasting value to you, only if it is equipment that contributes to successful living.

This may be for you the ideal kind of education.

JUDGES LISTEN TO A LESSON ON 2 DRIVERS' LAWS

License Plate Seizure Is Explained.

BY HAL FOUST.

Cook county police magistrates and justices of the peace were told yesterday how to enforce two trafic safety measures—the drivers' license and the financial responsibility laws. At a meeting in the Chicago Motor club they were advised of provisions of the laws.

Edward J. Hughes.

The drivers' license law will go into effect May 1, 1939. After that date no Illinois automobile owner will be permitted to drive without a license. Before that date there is no penalty for not having a license. It may be several weeks before Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes is ready to accept the first application.

Must Pay Judgments.

The financial responsibility law is now in force. It provides that the secretary of state shall recall the license plates of an owner convicted in a civil suit for damages if the judgment is not paid within thirty days after it becomes final. To recover his plates the defendant must pay the judgment and post a bond or insurance policy with the secretary to protect the public against damages from any repetition of his negligence.

The justices of peace and the police magistrates soon will receive from Secretary Hughes a form that they are to use in reporting unsatisfied judgments in suits growing out of automobile accidents. After receiving one of these reports the secretary will send a letter to the car owner requesting him to surrender his plates. If the owner fails to turn them in an enforcement officer will seize the plates.

Can Pay in Installments.

One provision of the financial responsibility law authorizes a justice of peace or police magistrate to make arrangements for the debtor to pay the judgment on an installment basis without losing his license. Police Magistrate Albert L. Sengstock of Des Plaines asked if this might not open the door for trickery by unscrupulous justices of the peace. Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the motor club, pointed out that this provision does not bar the creditor from other legal remedies.

DR. W. E. HARPER DIES; EXPERT ON DENTAL ALLOYS

Dr. William E. Harper, an international authority on metal alloys used in dentistry, died suddenly yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital. He was 73 years old. Dr. Harper was born in Yorkshire, England, and came to this country in 1881. He was graduated from the Northwestern university dental school in 1891, and later taught operative dentistry at Northwestern and at the American College of Dental Surgery. He has invented a number of dental appliances. In the last few years he had devoted his time to research. Surviving are his widow, Clara; two daughters, Mrs. H. A. Hooper and Miss Louise Harper, and a son, Clarence. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the residence at 6541 Yale avenue.

Two Electrocuted Near Elgin Stringing Aerial

Wilbert N. Witte, 21 years old, 337 Gertrude street, and William Kellermann, 20, 714 Clair street, both of Elgin, were electrocuted yesterday while stringing a radio aerial. The accident happened on the Harold Anderson farm, eight miles south of Elgin. While running the aerial from the house to a tree it fell on a high tension line.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

48 HOURS PASS IN COUNTY WITH NO TRAFIC DEATHS

At 4 p. m. yesterday, 48 hours had passed without an automobile fatality in Cook county. At that time, 505 persons had been killed by automobiles in the county since Jan. 1. Of these, 389 were killed in Chicago, where 11,880 were injured in the same period.

Frank Gustainis, 19 years old, was in a critical condition last night in the Condell Memorial hospital in Libertyville as a result of a collision earlier yesterday near Half Day, in Lake county. Gustainis lives at 1119 19th avenue, Melrose Park. John Morkus, 23 years old, of 129 15th avenue, Melrose Park, was killed in the same accident.

WOMAN INJURED AS STREET CAR JUMPS TRACK

One woman was cut and bruised and five other passengers shaken yesterday when a street car, turning the corner at Damen and Balmoral avenues, jumped the track, crashed into a fence, hit a trolley pole, and continued on. It ran on for 25 feet after leaving the track, coming to a halt within 5 feet of a gas tank in a service station at 5354 North Damen avenue. The pole was struck with such force that the wires it upheld were knocked down, cutting off power. The injured passenger, Mrs. Bertha Braitsch, 64 years old, of 1629 Catalpa street, was treated in the Swedish Covenant hospital.

Boy Struck by Auto After Stealing Street Car Ride

It cost Alfred Petnaleo, 14 years old, a broken arm yesterday to learn that it is unwise to steal rides on street cars. The boy, who lives at 4242 North Damen avenue, was riding on the rear of a one-man Montrose avenue car when it stopped at Honore street to pick up a policeman. Alfred spotted the blue uniform and dropped off as the car started up again. He ran in front of a passing automobile and was hit.

White Raincoats Found to Safeguard Police Lives

Since park district policemen started wearing white raincoats two years ago not one of them has been hit by an automobile. Fred S. Guilbert, safety director for the district, told yesterday of the successful use of the white coats. They protect policemen on trafic duty against the chance that a motorist might not see a black coat against the dark pavement.

Runs Over Policeman's Foot; Faces Judge Today

Earl Taylor's only defense yesterday was the old song that all policemen have big feet. And anyway, added Taylor, he didn't see them. Taylor was arrested for reckless driving when his automobile ran over the toes of Fred Guthrie, a trafic policeman at 77th street and South Shore drive. Taylor, who lives at 2330 Cermak road, will appear today in the Safety court.

Taunton, Mass., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Jane Toppan, 81 years old, famous poisoner, died today in the state hospital here. She had been an inmate for more than thirty-six years. Arrested when she was 45, she confessed killing "at least 100 persons," including Capt. Abner Toppan and his wife, a Lowell couple who took her in as an infant from a Boston foundling institution.

She was acquitted of murder in a Barnstable county court because of inherited insanity, but was committed June 24, 1902, to life in a state hospital.

Herbert Parker, attorney general at the time, testified she had killed many of her friends and on two occasions killed entire families.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.
Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Miss Gertrude Sieber Engaged toH.A.Gardner

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Gardner introduce Miss Gertrude Sieber to their friends on Cape Cod next week they will call her "our son's fiancée." This morning her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sieber of Evanston are announcing her engagement to Henry A. Gardner Jr. Next week young Mr. Gardner and his fiancée will go to Hyannisport, Mass., to visit his family.

Miss Sieber went to Smith college and then to Northwestern. After being graduated there she took a law course at Northwestern, the same course her fiancé is taking now. He finished at Yale in 1936 after having been at preparatory school at Andover. No date is set for the wedding.

Give Reception Today for Russos.

There undoubtedly will be parking problems near the Wilkinson house at 1027 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, late this afternoon. Between the hours of 5 and 7 Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence Wilkinson and their son-in-law and daughter, Signor and Signora Augusto Rosso, will be receiving, and every one who has been invited will be there, unless illness or absence from the city prevents.

This is the first time that friends of the former Frances Wilkinson Bunker have had a chance to meet her husband. He is Italian ambassador to Russia. When the Rossos were here earlier this summer they were just passing through town. That is about all he is doing this time too, for he leaves tomorrow for New York to sail for Italy on Saturday. After a brief stay in his native land he will go on to Moscow, where his wife will join him in the autumn. She sails from New York on Oct. 22.

Spend Several Weeks on Wyoming Ranch.

The Rossos and her son, George Bunker, have been spending several weeks at the H F Bar ranch in Wyoming. George will not accompany his mother to Moscow, for he is going to the Pomfret school in Connecticut this winter. His sister, Adele, who went to Duke university last year, probably will not go to Moscow either. Her plans for the coming winter are indefinite. She may come to Evanston to make a debut or she may remain in the east, where she is now. She is coming west next week to join her mother at the Wilkinsons'.

Tonight the Hubert Burnhams are giving a dinner party for the Rossos, who were married in Paris in January, 1937. He was ambassador to this country before going to Russia. It was while he was in Washington that he met the attractive widow whom he later married. Mrs. Bunker was living in Washington then.

Dartmouth Alumni Plan Gay Picnic.

When the wives and sweethearts of Dartmouth men hear about the plans for the Dartmouth Alumni association's annual picnic they are going to be sorry that the affair is to be a stag. It is to be held on Friday, Aug. 26, at the Louis Leverone estate on the Des Plaines river.

The graduates, undergraduates and their guests will meet at 3 o'clock to play baseball, pitch horseshoes, or to swim in the beautiful natural pool. There are several canoes on the pool to add to the fun. Gilbert H. Robinson, secretary of the association, reports that "there'll be barrels of beer to quench the thirst of the more, or less, active of our friends, and to whet lagging appetites for the supper to follow."

Dinner is set for 7 o'clock so that those who cannot get there earlier can arrive in time to dine. There are many fireplaces for cooking and the steak frying will be supervised by a master, so Mr. Robinson says. Bonfires, bull sessions, and songs will follow.

"We hate even to think of it, but if it does rain, there is a large cottage on the estate which will accommodate the whole crowd, and festivities will go on regardless," is the closing sentence in the announcements.

Prenuptial Parties for Mrs. Elizabeth Henry.

Many pre-nuptial parties are being given for Mrs. Elizabeth Irwin Henry, daughter of Mrs. Arthur B. Irwin of Highland Park, whose marriage to Charles W. Cregier will take place on Sept. 14. On Tuesday Mrs. Wil-

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Is the shade right? It had better be, because the wrong lip color can spoil any make-up. Some new, velvety textured lipsticks come sealed, but with "testers" in three shades that eliminate wrong guesses. [Tribune Studio Photo.]

Probably every woman who knows what a lipstick looks like has, at one time or another, gone completely haywire in her choice of a shade. On such occasions she has found, when she got home to her own merciless mirror, that what looked elegant in the shop is really a color that makes her look weird. It's on the same order of those mistakes we sometimes make with hats. You wonder what ailed you when you bought it.

Now something has been done to save us from such folly. To make shade selection easier—and pretty foolproof—one of the houses is providing three little "testers" with each lipstick. The stick comes sealed in a flat little box; set above it in the box are three tiny, shallow containers filled with the lip rouge.

One is the same shade as the lipstick, so you can be dead certain about what you've purchased before you break the seal of the stick. The other two containers contain lip rouge of two other shades; try them at home to see if you like them better before you open the stick itself.

In any case your lipstick can be exchanged if the seal is unbroken. In addition to being a helpful idea in shade selection, you are certain that every one of these lipsticks comes to you untouched from the laboratory.

The texture of these sticks is beautiful—smooth as satin, with full bodied shades and no drying effect. The shades are lovely—all six of them. One is in the fashionable pink tradition, youthfully light and good with pastels. There is also a true red; a luscious red with bluish undertone; a rosy stick with the faintest suggestion of orange; a deep, deep rose-orange for the suntanned, and a blood red that is a beauty for the conservative.

You shouldn't miss these.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Close-Up of Walt Disney.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 17.—I lunched with Walt Disney yesterday at the Tam O'Shanter inn. We ate out on the porch and ladies and children clambered out of cars with Canada, New York and Illinois license plates and asked him for his autograph, grinning happily and appearing a trifle dazed by their good luck in having Disney drop out of the skies.

Walt Disney.

"We've traveled 6,000 miles," bubbled one nice looking lady, "and this is the nicest single thing that has happened to us. If the restaurant misses a lot of menus today this is to inform them where they disappeared.

It's the first time the 36 year old Chicagoan and your reporter ever have sat down together for a couple of hours. His studio shuts down Friday for its annual two weeks vacation, so this is his week for relaxing. Not that the studio is inactive. "Ferdinand, the Bull" will be ready this week. "Pinocchio" has reached the point where $400,000 is invested already. There has been $100,000 worth of work done on "Bambi," which he believes will be the finest thing the studio ever has produced.

He has signed contracts for "Flight ot the Bumblebee" and "Sorcerer's Apprentice," and a buck and a doe are penned in the studio zoo as living and lively models for the animators who will work on "Entrance of a Little Fawn." On top of that he expects Leopold Stokowski momentarily.

I asked him what he had learned from the industry-shaking success of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." His brown eyes twinkled: "I'll tell you what it has taught me, Ed—a deep respect for the juvenile audience. I never had it before. You see, I figured that it was idiotic to make pictures for children because a 10 cent or 15 cent audience is unimportant in this business. So all of our work was slanted principally at an adult audience. Snow White, roadsnowed at prices ranging from 85 cents up, proved that parents would pay even those prices for their children's attendance. The children made the picture successful. The answer is that theaters do their greatest business up until 9 o'clock at night. From then on it flattens out."

Was it true that he was planning to give 20 per cent of the profits of "Snow White" to the studio employés: "Sure. They deserve it. They made the picture possible, didn't they? We've always done that. There are artists here who still collect 20 per cent bonuses from 'Three Little Pigs.' As a result of that system, funny things can and have happened. Just before the banks shut down all over the country, a few years ago, we had a cash reserve, so I gave them a 20 per cent cut out of it. A few days later the banks shut down and the panic was on, so I had to go to all of them and ask them to take a 10 per cent cut. They thought I had gone nuts."

How had he managed to keep control of his studio and prevent others from chiseling in? "Giannini saved me once," he said. "I owed $200,000 to a certain studio and they started to put the squeeze on me when they learned I couldn't pay off. They offered to cancel the debt for a 40 per cent interest in the business. I rushed my brother, Roy, to New York to raise some cash, but they asked 20 and 30 per cent interest, so I went to Mr. Giannini and told him what the situation was. You know the way he curses when he gets excited. He called them every name he could think of and gave me the check. I felt like little Nell just reaching the sherif's office in time to pay the mortgage when I rushed in with the check."

"'Snow White' was more than a picture to me," said Disney. "It was a life saver. The bank had loaned me $1,500,000 and they were getting jittery because all I had to show them was drawings. In the meantime the government had started to restrict bank loans. Mr. Rosenberger, one of the finest men I've ever met, came to me and explained the position he and the bank were in.

"He asked me to show him the rough cut of the picture. I tell you, Ed, I sat there and sweated blood in the projection room as he watched it. 'It will be better when the music is behind it,' I whispered to him. Or I'd say, 'The color will be much better in that scene.' That was the worst ordeal I've ever suffered.

"When the picture ended, I walked out of the projection room with him and I was really scared that he would talk, and scared that he wouldn't. He said that he liked it and would recommend that the bank give me enough money to finish it. When the picture started breaking records, Rosenberger was just as delighted as I was. The bank felt happier, too."

As a result of the $200,000 "squeeze" that was almost worked on him three years ago, and as a re-

Notables to Attend Music Fete Luncheon

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Strike up the band! The second annual Chicagoland Music Festival luncheon takes place tomorrow at the Stevens hotel. The greatest throng of musicians and music lovers ever to gather for such an event is coming. To welcome them the band literally will strike up, with an appropriate tune for each personality on the program.

Frances Langford.

It will be "The Wedding March" for Jon Hall, young star of the film, "The Hurricane," and his petite bride, Frances Langford, screen and radio singer.

A scramble of tunes will greet Alec Templeton, the famous Welsh pianist. His ingenious improvisations on multiple themes will delight the audience at the Music Festival Saturday evening. "The Sidewalks of New York" will accompany Olin Downes to the microphone. He is music critic of the New York Times and chairman of music for the forthcoming New York World's Fair of 1939.

"K-K-K-Katy" will ring for Geoffrey O'Hara, composer of that and other popular songs. Jessica Dragonette's own theme song will announce the charming radio singer. The song, "Chicago!" will herald Mayor Kelly. Philip Maxwell will preside at the luncheon. He is director of the Chicagoland Music festival.

Hundreds of music students will join the audience in time for the program. They and others interested will be admitted immediately after the luncheon at a charge of 50 cents. The luncheon will be at 1 o'clock. The students will come in at 2 o'clock.

Not all the famous will be at the speakers' table. Among the 2,000 seated in the ball room will be scores well known in the business world or the arts, in social circles or in public affairs.

Benjamin Affleck, business man; Miss Pearl Franklin, club leader; Gerhardt F. Meyne; James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians; Margery Maxwell, opera singer; Jason F. Whitney, president of the Chicago City Opera company; Mrs. William T. Bruckner, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs; Albert P. Stewart, director of music at Purdue university; David L. Shillinglaw; Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, president of the American Opera society; Victor Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor; Chauncey B. Blair—these are a cross section of the 2,000 who have made reservations.

One of the largest parties will be the 185 boy and girl musicians whom Miss Beth Hower, their teacher, is bringing from Lanark, Ill., and adjacent villages. These youngsters will leave Lanark early Friday by bus, and from Chicago will go to Elkhart, Ind., to give a concert as guests of the chamber of commerce. They will return to Chicago Saturday for the festival.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made by calling the festival headquarters in Tribune Tower, Superior 0100.

Norma Shearer Stays Away from Premiere Because of Picket Line

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Labor trouble kept hundreds of persons from seeing Norma Shearer at the première of her new picture, "Marie Antoinette." The star—who made the coast to coast trip just for the opening—wouldn't cross a picket line.

The opening was last night. The revelation came today.

She was asked at a press conference why she didn't appear. Before she could answer, a press agent said "she was ill."

"I was not," Miss Shearer retorted.

She said the Theatrical Managers, Agents and Treasurers' union [A. F. of L.], involved in a dispute with the theater, asked her not to pass the picket line.

The star didn't cross because she "didn't want to be the cause of any disturbance."

Assists at Two Benefits

For the first time in several weeks a wool jacket was comfortable yesterday, so Miss Helen Shoemaker wore a smart checked one over her pullover sweater. This attractive daughter of the Warren Shoemakers of Hubbard Woods will be a model in the annual fashion show of the Winnetka board of the Northwestern university settlement on Sept. 28. She will usher at the Church Mission of Help benefit on Oct. 3. The fashion show will be given in the New Trier gymnasium and the other benefit will be the opening performance of the San Carlo Opera company's engagement at the Auditorium theater.

Design Special Handkerchiefs for Hay Fever

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Outside of digging up a real and lasting cure for the hay fever victims, much has been done to ease their misery. Experts spend weeks scouting for retreats that will be far from the ragweed peril, trains depart for weedless havens at the first sniffle. The travel agencies know to a man all the favored north spots where the air is clear and cold.

The suffering army that is obliged to stay home is getting attention too. We've tracked down the most important item they need, special hay fever handkerchiefs.

These handkerchiefs are big velvety affairs of soft cotton. They are as comforting as a cool rain after hot, dusty weather. Twenty inches square, they're no sissy dabs. They're ready for good service. They wash and return for more use, as soft as you can imagine. There's no lint or fuzz to irritate, they're spanking white, thin, but absorbent, and have a half inch hem. Despite their very utilitarian quality they look sufficiently decorative. You won't have to apologize for them. The price is exceedingly moderate. You can own a dozen for about $3.

If you demand linen for your pampered proboscis, see the larger eighteen inch squares. These too have a moderate price; they're made for service; launder with a splendid record for softness, and are smooth and without fuzz or lint. They're puritan plain; the hems are thin and flat. They're especially comforting as anything like nonessential lace, embroidery, or initialing is completely forgotten. And after the season is over these hankies, linen or cotton, can be used just like the usual large squares, grand for winter spectacular sports costumes, or for that unexpected but possible winter cold.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxon arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. She meets Steve Hayward, a neighbor ranch owner, who tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary attitude toward him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun, and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Whitey gives Anne a riding lesson. She tries riding alone and is thrown just as Jake Collins, Gwen, and Lawyer Bill Jennings arrive. Collins turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey.

INSTALMENT X.

VEILED THREATS.

Steve's mind shifted from Anne to the problem of the broken fences that had faced him that morning.

Cattle had not been responsible for those breaks! There was some human agency behind them. But for the quick action of one of the boys in discovering it and drawing it to his attention, the whole herd he had collected with such care for the market would have drifted back to the higher slopes of the range.

As it was quite a few had escaped. He would have to devote several more days to rounding up before he could drive the cattle to town.

"Wonder who's got it in for us?" He flicked a fly off Dynamite's neck with his reins. "Maybe Jake Collins is so sure of picking up the X Bar Nine that he's looking a move farther. My ranch would be next. He may be taking steps to discourage me all he can so as to get me to sell out for a song.

"Then, again, it may be those Mexicans I fired last week who are staging a revenge. At all events, it's a cinch that from now on I concentrate on my own affairs. The sooner I forget yesterday and everything connected with it, the better!"

"I've just been over to call on the new owner of the X Bar nine, with dad and Bill Jennings, so I thought I'd drop in and make up," she called out. "I'm sorry I got so mad last night!"

"Don't let that worry you." Steve's voice held anything but welcome. "Sorry, but I've got to head off the range. Some of our fences were busted in last night."

Gwen's eyes snapped but she gave no other sign of resentment at Steve's reception.

"I won't keep you a minute, I just wanted to suggest that you use your influence with Anne Claxton to keep her from making a fool of herself."

"O, no?" The inflection of Gwen's voice matched the mocking disbelief of her eyes. "What did she say about dad's offer?"

"Nothing," Steve said shortly.

Gwen ignored his curt finality.

"You have just come from there, haven't you? I must say you didn't stay long! I thought I'd have a much longer wait."

"Say, since when did you turn detective?" There was a decided edge to Steve's bantering question.

"Since yesterday noon," Gwen admitted coolly. "I want to keep things from getting in a jam on this range. 'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.' If you could get it across to Anne Claxton that she's doing a crazy thing to buck dad, it would be the kindest thing you could do. Imagine trying to run a cattle ranch that's in the shape the X Bar Nine is, without even knowing how to ride."

Steve refused to join in Gwen's laughter. He picked up Dynamite's reins with the clear indication that he was waiting for his unbidden guest to go.

"It's none of my business," Steve said. "Believe me, from now on I'm minding my own affairs exclusive of anything else. Sorry I've got to go but I'll have to see how the boys are making out rounding up the cattle that got away."

He swung into the saddle as he spoke and waved a hand toward the porch with a belated hospitality. "Make yourself at home if you want to rest awhile. Don't worry about the X Bar Nine. I reckon the present owner will have enough of it in mighty short order."

"It's all very well for you to be so indifferent," Gwen complained. "You don't have to live with dad in the meantime! He's been fit to be tied ever since old man Claxton died; first, being held up by all the legal red tape, and then finding this crazy niece was coming out here to live instead of selling out to him. You might at least do what you can to get her to clear out."

"None of my business," Steve reiterated. "I've got my hands full running my own shebang."

"You may have them fuller yet," Gwen blazed.

"What do you mean by that?" Steve checked Dynamite.

"O, I don't mean anything, except a general warning that if you're as rude to every one as you are to me you'll find yourself with a nice bunch of enemies on your hands."

"You mean more than that," Steve declared. "What do you know about my fences being busted down last night?"

"Not a thing! I'm not doing your line riding!" Gwen took an impulsive step toward Dynamite and put a hand on the pommel of the saddle. "Don't let's quarrel again, Steve! Anyway, not until after the dance!"

"What dance?"

"That's polite, after you asked me to go! Have you forgotten that a week from Saturday is the dance?"

"Look here, Gwen, I can't get off for that. I'm delayed getting the cattle in to town and I doubt if I'll be back. I didn't know we had a date for that, anyway. I only said we might take it in if I could get the cattle off my hands."

"That's not the way I understood it," Gwen's flashing eyes said far more than her words. "However, it's of no consequence."

She turned abruptly on her heel and walked over to her horse. Steve felt an uncomfortable stir of memory that told him he really had been more definite about the dance. If Gwen actually thought that she did have a date with him—he mentally accepted the inevitable.

"All right," he said. "It's a go. I'll be over for you at the usual time."

She swung in the saddle and was off.

"Now what did she mean by that?" Steve mused. He headed Dynamite for the higher slopes of the range.

It seemed to Anne that she had never been so tired in her life as she was by sunset of that first day at the ranch.

Every muscle ached intolerably and her heart matched them with a dull despair, but through it all ran the ever brightening flame of the Claxton fighting spirit.

A feeling that Anne rigorously kept from rising to the surface of her mind was nevertheless a potent factor in her growing decision to carry on. If she went back she would never see Steve again, if she stayed—who could tell?

After Steve had left Anne had tackled her job of bringing order to the ranch house with the vigor of desperation. Anything to make her forget that Steve had ridden in and out of her life leaving this incredible sense of emptiness behind him! Her energy made Tim shake his head with a mixture of admiration and disapproval.

"She's sure got guts," he confided to Whitey as he set the table in the mess shack for three, clumsily trying to make the battered enamel cups and plates and in the tin silverware' less dreary by placing it with meticulous care and precision at each place.

"There's nothing stuck-up about her, either! I told her I'd tote her supper over there, but nothin' doin'! She says, 'I'm comin' over to have it with yuh and Whitey, Tim, I want to talk things over with yuh.' Here, yuh bloomin' son of a coyote, don't let that gravy burn!"

GASOLINE ALLEY—BYE BYE FOR AWHILE

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: "Confession"

Girl Desiring Beau's Return Must Use Wiles

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"About three months ago I broke off with a man with whom I had been going about steadily for two years. The break came because of another girl. After he began to take an interest in her I refused for months to see the fellow. But he kept pestering me and I weakened. He tells me that he loves me. I love him and never will love another.

"My question is whether I should keep on seeing the man. I believe he still loves me. He has given me presents just as he used to. He says that he will come back some day. He doesn't know just when.

"There are other young men I could go out with, one in particular, who always has been interested in me. I guess the girl in whom the man I love is interested has an unbreakable hold on him. What do you think? SUE."

You love the young man, Sue, so we would suggest that you play your cards to get him. We suspect that you put on a big scene when you first learned of your rival, which is normal enough, but not the wisest way to act. You probably said a lot of things at the time that hurt.

Anyway, you recognized the rival as dangerous, thereby belittling your own standing. If you could have laughed her off, or looked upon the incident as a temporary attraction, you wouldn't be nursing the heartache you're now suffering.

Into the lives of the best of us come those rivalry moments that must be handled with infinite skill. It's a hard rôle to perform, but it can be done. Putting on scenes is not the right way of meeting such a situation. It would have been smarter, Sue, to take on that other admirer and play him a bit as your friend.

But no use regretting now. Make up your mind whether you want the man back and go get him as you did in the first place, using your sweetest blandishments. That's the only way you can best a rival.

It's cleverer than making catty comments about her, or sulking about her. The fact that the chap still endows you with gifts would indicate that he wouldn't be hard to get back if you use tact and sweetness.

Hundred Children to Go with Sally to Theater Party Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

I hardly think that any child who received an invitation to our Palace theater party today will need this little reminder. But it's best to be on the safe side.

Be sure to bring your invitations with you, and please do try to be on time. We always have to wait for the stragglers. We're going to have a full-sized party, a feature movie and a gay stage show. Charlie McCarthy is all set to entertain you in "A Letter of Introduction" and as he's at his best in this film, I know you're going to love every minute of it.

The stage show will be fun, I know, because Al Trahan, a comedian, is featured, and there's a magician, too.

(ADVERTISMENT)

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

Good Advice About Constipation!

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, don't fiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are you won't have to look very far, if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely, you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Symphony Gets Noisy Farewell at Grant Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With a program packed from end to end with melody of the most heartening sort Hans Lange and the Chicago Symphony orchestra concluded last evening their 1938 Grant park series. The large audience which the importance of the occasion and the unaccustomed kindliness of the weather had drawn to the lake front bade the director and his men a noisy farewell.

This was the first evening this week when the gale did not blow the breath right out of the windplayers' instruments and fill the eyes of orchestra and audience with dirt and shredded paper. The musicians rose magnificently to their opportunity and put on a program whose execution would have done credit to a wintertime Orchestra hall concert.

The "Egmont" overture of Beethoven profited by Mr. Lange's determination to make the lyrical passages, which relieve so effectively the piece's great tonal masses, as plastic and personal as his respect for the composer's style would permit. The Seventh Symphony, from the same man's pen, was satisfyingly headlong in the Presto and as epic sounding in the finale as any one could wish.

The beautiful imitative effects in the development section of the first movement boasted a delicacy and an eloquence which gave the listeners a foretaste of what the conductor was going to do with the Allegretto and with the trio of the Presto. Here were a graciousness of line and a subdued richness of texture which made of the familiar music something new and living.

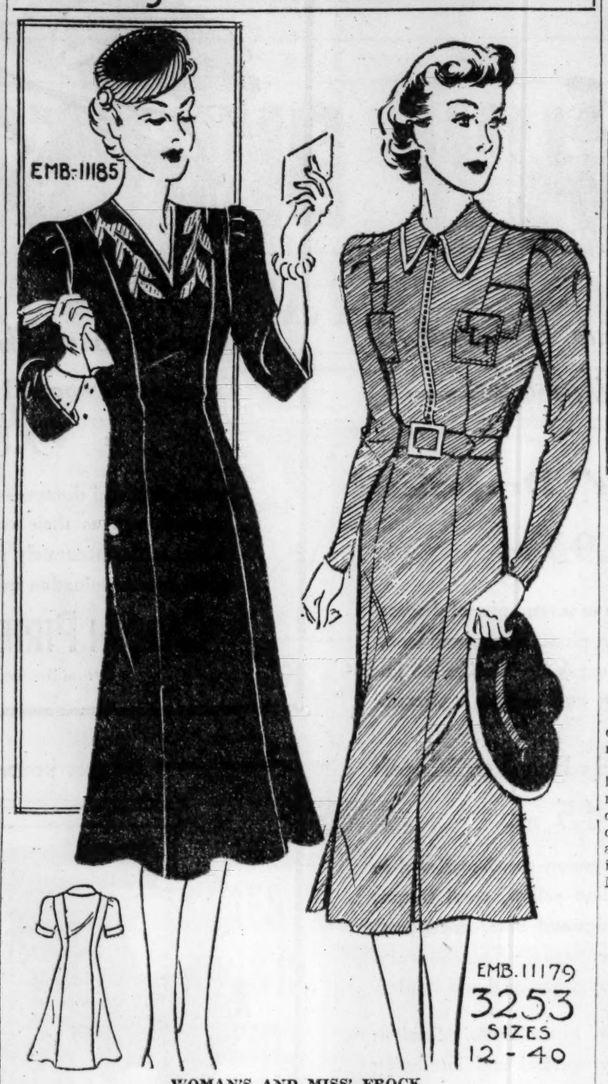
After the intermission came Weber's "Oberon" overture, then Smetana's "The Moldau." The two intoxicating tunes of the latter piece worked up an enthusiasm in the audience which persisted right to the fall of the final curtain. In the introduction to "The Moldau" came another one of those bits of musical information which can be acquired nowhere but at Grant park. The announcer clarified Smetana's position for us by ascribing to the great nationalist composer the opera, "The Bohemian Girl."

"The Sorcerer's Apprentice," one of the few genuine examples of humor in musical literature, received a performance which emphasized the wonderful drollery of its instrumentation as well as the rhythmic intoxication of its principal theme. The plight of the awkward apprentice in the face of the broom which kept fetching more and more water into an already overly aqueous room was rollickingly portrayed by such expert orchestral comedians as the bassoon.

The delicate minuet and sylph music from Berlioz' "Damnation of Faust" were effectively contrasted with the "Rakoczy March" out of the same work. The "Capriccio Espagnol" of Rimsky-Korsakoff clanged its brilliant way past 10 o'clock, and brought on an ovation whose object seemed to be a repetition of the suite.

Although this was the last scheduled appearance of the Chicago Symphony orchestra in Grant park this year, there is always the chance that the precedent of other summers will be followed and that these men will be brought back to take part in a supercolossal farewell concert on the Sunday after Labor day. But this is strictly confidential, and you must not tell a soul.

Straight Lines Fashionable



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

If you've been looking into the autumn fashion situation, you already know how popular straight line dresses are, the kind that mold the figure and are uninterrupted by sashes or belts. The model we're offering in our pattern today takes up the trend. In the version at the left the dress adopts the sleek beauty of black crêpe and uses embroidery for trimming at the V neckline. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulders and are styled in bracelet length. The embroidery pattern for this embellishment is No. E-11185, and is available for 10 cents extra.

The same applies to the embroidery pattern which provides the pocket monogram for the other version. Its number is E-11179. This is a more tailored version of the dress pattern and gives the frock a shirtwaist collar, four pockets on the bodice, and a belt around the waist. A slide fastener helps you to get in and out of the frock with ease. Woolens, the sheer kind, are excellent for this model if it is destined for campus or office. For afternoons you might make it of crêpe.

Style No. 3253 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

Charm of Canine Face Employed in Transfer Pattern

BY NANCY CABOT.

Every little girl would like to have a stuffed dog, and to have his face embroidered on her dress pocket brings an added thrill. This is one of the very latest ideas in embroidery. The hot iron transfer pattern shows all the stitches. They are worked with a plain outline stitch that really takes only a little time.

For a pattern of the above design, No. X39, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Methodist Leaders Set Up Judiciary for Newly United Church

Representatives of the three merging Methodist churches met yesterday at the Hotel La Salle to set up plans for a judicial committee for the merged church.

The basis for the committee, which will have supreme judicial powers over the church's internal ecclesiastical affairs, is the existing judicial administration in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Neither the northern church nor the Methodist Protestant church, other churches involved in the merger, has a comparable judicial administration.

Bishop Edgar Blake of Detroit, chairman of the joint committee, said that the work probably would be completed today and that the plan would be ready for submission to the uniting conference which meets on April 26, 1939.

From four corners of the world come these four recipes for foods not utterly foreign to our palates.

The English have a pasty much like the Irish pasties for which the recipe is given, so should have some of the credit, I suppose. The Mexican corn and squash dish is so simple and seasonable that I couldn't resist including it, although many other Mexican dishes are better known.

[German Potato Dumplings]
[Serves four to six]

2 cups mashed potatoes
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon finely minced onion
1 egg
¾ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup bread cubes browned in butter or bacon fat

Add butter, onion and egg to mashed potatoes, and mix thoroughly. Sift in flour, salt and pepper, and blend. Shape the mixture into balls the size of an egg, forming each ball around four or five of the fried bread cubes. Cook in gently boiling water for 7 minutes. Serve on a platter around the meat. Dumplings are more attractive if sprinkled with fine bread crums which have been browned in butter or fat.

Irish Pasties.

Filling:
¾ cup diced cooked beef or lamb fresh beef
¼ cup grated raw carrots
½ cup grated raw potatoes
½ cup finely diced celery
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¼ cup chopped onion
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt

Pastry:
3 cups flour
6 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk

Mix meat, vegetables and seasonings, for filling. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together, cut in shortening, and add milk and egg. Knead dough lightly for a minute, and roll ¼ inch thick. Cut in six 5 inch squares. Place a part of the filling on half of each square, fold the rest of the dough over, and pinch the edges together. Prick the upper crust with a fork. Brush the tops with diluted egg yolk. Bake at 375 degrees for half an hour.

Cidracayote.
[Mexican Corn and Squash]

1 summer squash
1 tablespoon butter
2 ears corn
1 teaspoon sugar
Salt, pepper

Peel the squash and cut it into cubes. Fry in butter, stirring frequently. Before it becomes tender, add corn, cut from cob, and seasonings. Continue cooking until corn is soft.

French Onion Soup.
[Serves six]

4 medium onions, sliced thin
3 tablespoons butter
5 cups beef or veal stock
½ teaspoon salt
6 thin slices toast
Grated cheese

Fry onions in butter until golden brown. Drain and add stock. Cover and let simmer twenty minutes, or until onions are very tender. Pour soup into deep bowls. Add small slices of toast which will float on top. Sprinkle toast slices liberally with grated cheese, and add a dash of paprika to each. Serve piping hot.

If you've been using rubber gloves—the old type that gets extremely slippery when wet—you'll be glad to know there is a new model.

These rubber gloves are made with little patches of ridges on the inside of the thumb and the first three fingers. Another larger patch is on the palm. These small ridges give you a "purchase" on slippery objects and also permit you to scrub away at particles of dirt or grease that stick to them. You'll like these gloves, and they last a long time.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is one very valuable bid which, regretfully enough, is not found in the average player's repertoire. I refer to the jump response of three no trump to an opening suit bid of one. Admittedly, opportunities for its use are not common, but when they do occur there is no good substitute. Perhaps the neglect springs from the hard-to-kill fallacy that the three no trump jump is "game closing." Of course, nothing could be further from the truth. A response that announces three and a half to four honor tricks hardly can be used to end the bidding, and, indeed, there should be no desire to that effect. Let us consider the three no trump jump response in connection with the following typical hand:

NORTH
♦ K Q J 3 2

WEST
♠ J 5
♥ Q 10 8
♦ 9 6 4

EAST
♠ Q 7 2
♥ 9 6 5 3
♦ 10 7

SOUTH
♠ K 9 6 3
♥ A J 2
♣ K Q 9

This deal actually occurred in a recent rubber game I had the privilege of kibitzing, and the bidding went:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
7 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Sitting directly behind South, I was shocked at the two spade response and wondered whether he would be lucky enough to redeem himself. When the grand slam finally was reached and North [after a low club opening] exposed his hand, I was not surprised to see that a trump loser was a virtual certainty. A miraculous trump break, such as the Q-J blank in either hand, would have saved the declarer, but when it failed to materialize, he was down one.

Superficially, it might appear that North was responsible for this debacle because he took out the ironclad six no trump to seven spades. In my opinion, such an observation would be quite out of order. The fault was 98 per cent South's. His spade suit did not remotely justify a jump take-out, and North could not be expected to allow for such a skimpy suit. After all, North had four honor tricks, with beautiful distribution for spades. South, in addition to making a jump take-out, had initiated the four no trump convention, thus placing the aces of hearts and diamonds and the king of spades. Of course, North realized that there might be duplication in clubs, but nevertheless it was inconceivable that South's spade suit, at the worst, should not be K-J high. If it were five long there would be an excellent chance to drop the queen and, of course, there was an even better chance that South had the K-Q and that no drop or finesse would be needed.

South had been seduced, by an impressive array of honor tricks, into a very bad bid. I repeat, his spade suit was much too anemic to warant a jump take-out, and his distribution as a whole was distinctly no trumpish. With three and a half plus honor tricks his hand exactly fitted the requirements for a three no trump jump take-out. I might refer readers to page 177 of my Gold Book, on which appears: "The take-out [of a suit bid of one] to three no trump is a highly specialized bid to show: [a] three and a half to four honor tricks, with every suit stopped, and [b] 4-3-3-3 distribution."

Obviously, had South's first take-out been three no trump the partnership easily would have reached the proper six no trump or six diamond contract.

Listen To and Respect Your Child's Ideas

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Here's an important point to keep in mind as your children grow older. Also, it will tend to make life with them much more interesting.

The advice is: Encourage your children to think for themselves.

Often we may feel that our children's reasoning or their conclusions are wrong, and perhaps they are, but we can at least treat them with understanding and accord them dignity. A casual flouting of a boy's or girl's opinion is not going to encourage that most necessary feeling of faith in themselves.

Do you try to make your children think as you do? Do you feel that "mother knows best" or "father knows best," and thereby rob a child of his freedom of thought? The ability to think clearly, untrammeled by other people's conception of right or wrong, is not something that one achieves miraculously at the somewhat arbitrary age of 18 or 21. It is something that can best be achieved by practice, by a trial and error method that can best be done by doing.

Our power to influence or sway the opinion of our little children is almost unlimited and, therefore, we should use this power with wisdom. The power wanes as the children grow older and are acted upon more by outside influences and contacts. There are, then, other influences at work besides ours—modern novels, movies, and social contact with their contemporaries.

As children reach the adolescent age we are all due for shocks when we discuss things with them, just as our fathers and mothers were shocked by a viewpoint which was modern when we were in our teens. What was radical then is conventional now, and what we may consider radical now may be conventional in the next generation.

Children can differ honestly with their parents, and we should respect their honesty even if we cannot always agree with their conclusions.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

sult of the agony he went through with the financing of "Snow White," Disney is resolved now that he'll never be caught in that position again. "Now that we're in the feature picture field, we can make money, and the success of 'Snow White' gives me money enough to work with. Our new studios will cost $1,500,000. I'm getting four new cameras that will cost $20,000 apiece. The pay roll is $2,500,000 a year. You see, it takes a lot of money to operate."

Surprisingly enough, Disney says that the reason he bans all studio visitors is because he found that they were not interested in what they saw. "They came in to while away half an hour, so we stopped it."

Two visitors, however, were thoroughly interested, H. G. Wells and Charlie Chaplin. "Wells couldn't get over the fact that we had a carpentry shop," he recalled. "Chaplin, when he came in, said he could stay only for an hour. He stayed all afternoon. The animators got more kick out of him than he did out of us."

Dyeing Often Problematical; Gray Hair Chic

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The question of whether to color the hair or let it remain gray is one that confronts us often. It is one of those beauty problems which we answer with hesitation. We do not see the correspondent. We do not know whether she is exaggerating her case. We are not sure whether it is an economic pressure that is bearing down on her. And we are not sure, in some cases, whether the woman plans to do her own job of hair dyeing.

We do not know whether she will insist upon the operator being the best. We don't know whether a strand of hair will be experimented with to see how the color takes.

On the other hand, we are convinced that hair coloring is done with great success. We know that it lifts the morale when it is well done. We know that it often may spell success in job seeking. So that it is a disconcerting question to be left to answer when asked: "Shall I dye my hair or shall I not."

It is a long, tedious job effectively accomplished. It requires inordinate skill on the professional's part. And its upkeep is costly.

And one does see some perfectly hideous dyed heads, with that deep purplish tone that no human face survives with softness. Or, it may be hard orange tones, or bad coppery shades. The younger woman whose skin in still fresh enough takes less gamble than the older woman who has lost all of the fresh bloom.

So, the older one's problem is weighty, and if she cannot afford the best in operators and the reappearances at the salon for upkeep of the dyed hair, she is wiser to concentrate on making her gray hair the best brushed, the best groomed, the most smartly dressed head in her community. Gray hair definitly softens the face and never was it smarter, when smartly groomed and dressed, than it is at this very minute.

LINTON TWEEDS

In our advertisement Monday of Linton Tweeds, the phrase, "Only at Field's in the United States" gave the impression that Linton Tweed fabrics were handled at no other stores in this country.

The materials by Linton in the women's suits and the coat we advertised are Marshall Field and Company's exclusively and no other store in the United States now has them. The suits were designed by Creed of London for us, and for us alone. The phrase, "Only at Field's in the United States" should have applied only to the particular suits and the coat illustrated in the advertisement, and to the fabrics used in them.

LIGHTNING JOLTS REDSKINS AS STORM HALTS DRILL

SPLIT DECISION GIVES HENRY 15 ROUND FIGHT

NEW PLAYERS SHOW SKILL IN BRIEF PRACTICE

Baugh Accurate as Ever on Passes.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ballston, Va., Aug. 17.—A severe electrical and rainstorm, during which the entire squad was shocked by a lightning bolt that struck near the dressing room, interrupted the Washington Redskins' first vigorous scrimmage for the All-Star game today.

Heavy storm clouds, which blocked out the sun, and a cooling breeze had brought welcome relief from the intense heat of the last five days when the squad assembled for its afternoon drill. Scrimmage was ordered immediately and two teams, one composed of veterans and the other liberally sprinkled with rookies, worked spiritedly for nearly half an hour before a sudden downpour drenched players and drove 600 spectators to cover.

Coach Ray Flaherty continued to scrimmage in the rain until the clay surface of the playing field became treacherous. Before the players could race for the small dressing room, a bolt of lightning hit a nearby light pole and crackled across the gridiron. A few minutes later another bolt struck near the clubhouse, knocked out the lights and shocked the entire squad and some of the players in the showers severely.

Baugh Demonstrates Skill.

Wayne Millner, veteran end and pass catcher, and a newspaper correspondent who were standing near a light switch were nearly knocked off their feet, and Hal Bradley, rookie end from Elon college, complained of numbness in his legs an hour afterward.

Although the scrimmage lasted less than half as long as Flaherty had intended, the young Redskin coach was able to get a definite line on two of the new men and he had the pleasure of seeing Sammy Baugh give a demonstration of the artistry which is calculated to bewilder and vanquish the All-Stars. Baugh threw three passes and completed each one. His first was a short one to Millner, who broke away for 35 yards before being cornered.

Riley Smith, veteran quarter back, took the next one deep over the middle and eluded the secondary for the only touchdown of the scrimmage. Baugh's third attempt went to Bradley, who gathered it in in the flat and sprinted 40 yards down the sidelines for a total gain of 56 yards.

Coach Is Impressed.

Flaherty was greatly impressed with Bradley and George Karamatic, the stocky little muscle man who is being groomed for the place left vacant by the retirement of Cliff Battles, last year's National league ground gaining champion. Karamatic broke away for runs of 20, 27, and 31 yards and he displayed the driving power of a full back in shorter excursions into a veteran line.

Bradley, 6 feet 5 inches tall and weighing 215 pounds, gave an encouraging demonstration of pass handling, but he was most impressive as a blocker. He worked to advantage against the Redskins' huge tackles, Turk Edwards, Jim Barber, and Wee Willie Wilkin, the rookie from St. Mary's. Flaherty again was loud in his praise of Wilkin, a blond giant who mined copper in Mexico last summer and who missed seven buses en route to camp. Wilkin, 21 years old, has all the physical requisites for stardom. He stands 6 feet 3 and weighs 245 pounds. He has established himself as the strongest man on the squad and he has finished second only to ends and backs in wind sprints. Only inexperience will prevent him from displacing either Edwards or Barber.

Receive Last of Plays.

The Redskins today received the last of the plays they will use against the All-Stars. A total of sixty maneuvers has been diagrammed in the lectures held twice a day since practice opened.

GMITRO SCORES 2 TOUCHDOWNS IN ALL-STARS' DRILL

Collegians Show Power in First Scrimmage.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Little Rudy Gmitro, whom Coach Bernie Bierman once called the best blocker on the Minnesota team, was the best running half back on the practice field yesterday afternoon in Dyche stadium as the All-Americans scrimmaged for two hours. Rudy scored two of the six touchdowns the Reds and the Blues accomplished in two hours of intensive drill, the first scrimmage of the campaign, and if Washington's Redskins, professional champions of the world, wish to single out one man to worry about in Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 31, they wisely will pick out Gmitro.

Gmitro's favorite athlete is Minnesota's Bronko Nagurski. Rudy used to climb the fence around the Gophers' stadium to see Bronko bust 'em. And although Gmitro weighs only 165 pounds, he goes like Nagurski, not over his opponents, however, but flashing past them, dodging and turning with speed that twice yesterday left tacklers clutching vainly in his wake as he was away for touchdowns.

Scores on Reverse Play.

Gmitro was the right half back on the second Red team to take the field. With him in the back field were Jack Robbins of Arkansas, Andy Puplis of Notre Dame, and Gary Famiglietti of Boston university. These boys had a smart looking line in front of them. The center trio was Pat McCarthy, Joe Ruetz and Joe Kuharich of Notre Dame. At the tackles were Alex Kevorkian of Harvard, and Vic Markov of Washington. The ends were Jim Zachary of Purdue and John Kovatch of Northwestern.

Rudy and his mates went to work after the first Red team, which had a back field of Cecil Isbell, Jack White, Jim McDonald, and Andy Uram, had scored two touchdowns. And Rudy, with perhaps the best blocking of the afternoon, added the punch to the reverse play that was the most consistently effective offensive weapon of the scrimmage.

Makes 40 Yard Dash.

On the first march toward the north goal, Gmitro went around the defensive right end for twenty yards. Puplis dashed around the other end for nine yards and big Famiglietti made it first down. The Boston boy cracked the line again for five yards and then Rudy shot around end once more for three yards and the touchdown.

When the Reds got the ball again after the Blues had been stopped and forced to punt, Robbins opened the drive with a short gain around right end. Famiglietti, hitting with irresistible power, drove through the line and plowed on for twenty-five yards. Gmitro took the ball and this time he came down the west side line, shooting through openings only he

It was quite some coming out party that eastern gal had, wasn't it? Her father built a $15,000 pavilion that was to be torn down after its one night of use. None of the society reporters who covered the shindig mentioned the fellow who paid for it all. To My Son: Baseball.

This greatest of pastimes extant:
Give all your best while you can, lad,

Then, when your fast one has vanished,

Hit 'em as Hack Wilson used to,
Pitch with the smoke of a Rowe;
Gone where all Titans must go.

He marches no more to the wars.

The world doesn't care for your clippings—

Hay Fever.
No. 2.

My boy friend sneezes louder than a gun
Whenever the hay fever germs attack;
You'd think he'd have the microbes on the run
But they march nonchalantly up his nose

Which stimulate the microbes at their play
And make them call in all their kith and kin.
He surely has a sorry looking pan

Tigers Defeat White Sox in Double Header

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 17.—The White Sox and Tigers were just about to reach an agreement this afternoon over the spoils of a double-header when something happened. The local new broom brigade captured the first game from old Ted Lyons, 4 to 3, and there was no complaint about that except from James Dykes, the Sox boss, who was run off the premises for too much talking. But in the next game the Chicagoans went into the ninth in charge of a 2 to 1 triumph only to encounter an uprising which slapped them down for their second trimming of the day, 3 to 2.

In the first battle Lyons, who has been pitching big league ball for some sixteen summers, was wrong in only a few spots but that was enough to flatten him. Tommy Bridges, his opponent, got along successfully, mainly because he held the Sox to one triple against a pair of such drives yielded by Lyons.

Two Homers Are Wasted.

The Sox tried to win the second game on homers, by Gerald Walker and Joe Kuhel off Alton Benton, recently recalled from Toledo. The two homers would have served their purpose if the pitching of Jack Knott had been the only thing that counted. The ex-Brownie, however, was somewhat amiss in his fielding.

The finishing touch arose in the ninth when Knott walked Ross with none out. Christman ran for him. White batted for Benton, bunted toward first and beat it out for a hit. Morgan also bunted and Knott, after picking up the ball, threw to third but Owen wasn't there. The ball shot into left field, Christman scoring, White going to third and Morgan to second. Rogell was passed purposely, filling the bases, whereupon Knott was removed. Thornton Lee was called in as a rescuer and Gehringer singled, sending in White with the winning run.

FIRST GAME

Owen, once a local favorite, was responsible for starting the Sox off with a run in the opening inning of the first game. He caromed a single off Ross' glove with one out. Jerry Walker expired on a popup but Radcliff walked. Appling singled past Gehringer and Owen scored, but Radcliff was cut down at third. At least, Umpire Pipgras called him out and the decision aroused Manager Dykes to such an extent that he ran over from the first base coaching box to complain. His compensation for this display of managerial energy was an order to get off the field and stay off. The Tigers remained in arrears only until the second inning. York walked

CUBS TUMBLE TO 4TH PLACE; LOSE TO REDS, 8 TO 4

Vance Page Is Routed in Fourth Inning.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday took one of their periodical plunks into fourth place. And unless they pull themselves together better than they did in taking an 8 to 4 trimming at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds they may stay there this time. The Chicagoans are in no imminent danger of sinking to fifth place, for they are seven games ahead of the Boston Bees.

All of the scoring which a ladies' day crowd of 27,255 saw yesterday was concentrated in three innings. The Reds made three runs off Vance Page in the third inning and five off Page and Jack Russell in the fourth, a gruesome session, which included a homer off Page by Harry Craft.

Cubs Get Busy.

The Cubs, bruised but relaxed, got busy after two were out in the fifth and made their day's collection, four runs. Starting at the top of the batting order, there was a hit, a walk, and four more singles. All of this frolicsome business knocked out Buck Walters and brought forth Gene Schott, who retired the side with two on base and allowed only one hit, an infield single by Bill Jurges, during the remainder of the game. Walters was awarded the victory by the official scorer.

Hunts for Talent.

Though given a free rein in the matter of strengthening his outfit, Manager Hartnett made no announcements of any changes. It is said that scouts have been scouring the country for talent, especially .300 hitters. Apparently, however, this ilk is as scarce in the unoptioned market as it is on the Cubs, where a .300 plus batting average virtually is unknown.

The reversal yesterday gave the Cubs a record of four defeats in their last five games and reduced Hartnett's record as a manager to one game above the .500 mark. Under Gabby the lads have won 14 and lost 13. The Reds will be here this afternoon.

The Cubs in the second inning developed the first threat of the game, but put on a familiar wilting act to keep themselves away from the plate. After Galan had been called out on strikes, Reynolds singled to right and went to third on O'Dea's double to left. Demaree was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Jurges then lined to Frey, who tossed to Myers to double O'Dea off second.

Reds Score in Third.

The next activity was in the Reds' fourth, which was pretty terrible. Lombardi started it by dropping a single into right and promptly rode home on Craft's No. 13 homer, a shot into the left field bleachers. Riggs singled to right and Manager Hartnett decided Page had absorbed enough punishment. Myers sacrificed and when O'Dea became confused and threw late to second, Riggs reached that station and Myers was safe at first. Walters bunted and Russell, in attempting to get Riggs at third, threw to left field, Riggs and Myers scoring and Walters reaching second. Berger singled to left, scoring Walters and took second on a throw to the plate.

(Picture on page 17.)

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Henry Armstrong of California became the first fighter in all ring history to hold three ring titles at the same time tonight when he hammered his way to a decision over courageous Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., in fifteen rounds. The fight, furious and savage, thrilled a gathering of 20,000 in Madison Square Garden.

Why the ballot slips on the decision should have been divided is a mystery. Henry won ten of the fifteen rounds, and three of the five he lost he dropped through accidental fouls.

Equally mysterious was the noisy demonstration of disapproval which came when the verdict was announced. Making allowances for the fact that Ambers was heavily backed as the short-ender in odds that went to 17 to 5 at ring time, it is hard to understand the jeers, boos, and catcalls, the storm of torn papers, flying straw hats and cigar butts which rained on the ring when the new champion was crowned.

One Judge Disagrees.

Referee Billy Cavanagh and Judge George Lecron voted for Armstrong. Judge Marty Monroe voted for Ambers. Cavanagh declared Armstrong the victor by seven rounds to six with two even. Judge Lecron gave Armstrong eight rounds, Ambers six, and declared one even. Judge Monroe gave Ambers the majority on his sheet with eight rounds against Armstrong's seven.

Armstrong had Ambers down in the fifth round under a crushing right to the jaw, but the knockdown, with Ambers obviously hurt, came just before the bell rang and, at the count of one, Ambers was saved.

Lou Grows Very Weary.

Armstrong had Ambers so weary at times that it seemed Lou could not go on, but he did survive and, more, he came back. He came back bravely and then in the thirteenth round he came close to turning the tables on his foe.

In this round Ambers fought Armstrong to a standstill. Henry's hammering blows seemed to lose their force as the fight progressed and his store of energy waned.

That thirteenth round effort took a lot out of Ambers. He practically was out on his feet in the fourteenth and fifteenth, when he again essayed rallies, only to be brought up short by Armstrong's punches.

Henry's Glad It's Over.

The ring's first triple champion finished the bout on wobbly legs. His lips and mouth were bruised and bleeding, and there was a gash on the lid of his left eye.

Ambers' share of the purse was $32,554.28, representing 37½ per cent of the net receipts. Armstrong collected $19,532.57, 22½ per cent of the net.

Small Montana, Philippine Islands, beat Tom Myforte, Philadelphia [6].

Chalky Wright, Los Angeles, stopped Al Reid, New York [4].

Cleveland, O., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns knocked three Cleveland pitchers around for sixteen hits today to win, 10 to 7. The Browns pounded Johnny Allen, trying for his fourteenth victory, for nine hits in the first five innings, and Allen retired to see if Al Milnar and Willis Hudlin could keep him from going into the records as the losing pitcher. AUSTRALIANS FACE GERMANS IN CUP SERIES

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The tennis teams of Australia and Germany ended practice today for their Davis cup playoff, starting tomorrow, to decide which will oppose the United States for the trophy. Australia was heavily favored to win and some went so far as to pick them to sweep all five matches.

The opening day's singles matches will pit Jack Bromwich, 19 year old Australian, against Henner Henkel, the world's No. 3 ranking player, and Adrian Quist, 25 year old veteran, against George von Metaxa, former Austrian who is representing the Germans through annexation.

On Friday, these same four will clash in doubles, and on Saturday they will reverse their pairings for the final singles, Quist playing Henkel and Bromwich meeting Von Metaxa.

and taxied home on Fox's triple to right center. Fox counted on Dixie Walker's grounder which Berger fumbled. The local fellows didn't start another anti-Lyons move until the fifth. Ross led off with a short fly which eluded Radcliff for a two base hit. Bridges sacrificed and, with the infield drawn in, Morgan slapped a single past Berger to send Ross home. This gave the Tigers a 3 to 1 lead.

Sox Get One Back.

After the first the Sox went five innings on a starvation diet of one hit, but in the seventh they picked up another and with it a run, leaving the Tigers one ahead. Appling led off with a pass and, after Kreevich had subsided on a fly to center, Kuhel tripled off the right field pavilion, Appling scoring.

The Tigers recovered their two run edge in the eighth and almost grabbed one or two more runs. Morgan opened with a single to left and Rogell sacrificed. Gehringer lined safely into the left field corner and the ball bounced around long enough to become a triple, Morgan scoring. Appling knocked down Greenberg's solid smack and threw to the plate in time to retire Gehringer. Then Appling booted York's bounder, Greenberg taking third. Lyons stopped this disturbance on Fox's pop to Berger.

The Sox got a fine start toward a tie in the ninth, but were thwarted by a double play. Radcliff and Appling singled, the former taking third. Kreevich's grounder to Gehringer resulted in the twin killing, Radcliff scoring. Then Kuhel struck out.

SECOND GAME

After two were out in the first inning of the second affair Jerry Walker slapped the ball into the left field pavilion for his eleventh homer and this looked like a big run until Knott got into difficulties in the third. Jack was able to extricate himself, however, with the damage limited to the tying tally. Ross walked and was safe at second when Knott threw wild on Benton's bunt. Morgan sacrificed and a single by Rogell scored Ross. Gehringer then tapped to Knott for a double play.

Joe Kuhel's fifth homer went into the seats in the fifth to put the Sox in front, 2 to 1, and in the home half of the inning Knott fielded himself into another terrible mess. He filled the bases on his own blunder with none out, but pitched himself back onto safe ground. Ross got a double because of Radcliff's poor judgment on a fly ball. Benton bunted and Knott threw to third, but Ross remained at second, so Owen had to throw to first and the throw was wild, Ross taking third. Benton was credited with a hit and Owen charged with an error. A pass to Morgan loaded the bases. Rogell then lined to Radcliff, Knott fanned Gehringer, and Greenberg flied high to Radcliff.

seemed to see, and finished a touchdown dash of forty yards standing up.

Practice Twice Today.

Two teams of blue-shirted players and their substitutes took a licking from the Reds, but they had their moments although a misplay or fumble always managed to keep them from the goal line. At times all the teams plainly indicated that this scrimmage was their first.

Bo McMillin, just before he sent the players to showers, shortly after 6 o'clock, gave as his estimate that the boys needed to work harder to condition themselves and that their blocking was weak. The teams will report this morning at 10 o'clock and again at 4 o'clock. Their next scrimmage will be held Saturday.

Marty Schreyer, Purdue tackle, was injured in the early minutes of play. Later Erwin Wegner, Northwestern center, received a cut over his right eye; Francis Gallagher of Yale retired after he had been bumped solidly in the stomach, and Hugh Wolfe, the driving Texas full back, came back after a pile-up knocked the wind out of him.

Davis Pulls Muscle.

In the morning drill yesterday Corby Davis, Indiana full back, pulled a leg muscle which kept him out of the scrimmage and he will be on the side lines for several days. Maurice Carroll, Catholic university half back, also was kept out of scrimmage because of a bruised leg.

Schreyer's knee injury is the most serious. He was blocked solidly as Andy Uram returned Frank Patrick's punt and set up the Reds' second scoring play in the first minutes of scrimmage. Here's the lineups that started the scrimmage:

REDS.

ENDS—Sweeney, Notre Dame, and Schwartz, California.
TACKLES—Barbarsky, Fordham, and Kinard, Mississippi.
GUARDS—Monsky, Alabama, and Zarnas, Ohio State.
CENTER—Wolf, Ohio State.
QUARTER BACK—McDonald, Ohio State.
HALF BACKS—Isbell, Purdue, and Uram, Minnesota.
FULL BACK—White, Princeton.

BLUES.

ENDS—Benton, Arkansas, and Birr, Indiana.
TACKLES—Schreyer, Purdue, and Midler, Minnesota.
GUARDS—Routt, Texas Aggies, and Calvano, Northwestern.
CENTER—Wegner, Northwestern.
QUARTER BACK—Spadaccini, Minnesota.
HALF BACKS—Heap, Northwestern, and Wolfe, Texas.
FULL BACK—Patrick, Pittsburgh.

The Blues made three successive first downs, including a twenty yard run by Wolfe, Spadaccini's fourteen yard plunge, and a fifteen yard pass from Heap to Wolfe. Then they were stopped and the Reds swept down the field to score.

Isbell Does Some Passing.

In this march Isbell proved he is the best forward passer discovered thus far in the All-Star camp. Isbell passed to Uram, who ran nearly fifty yards before Spadaccini brought him down. A first down on penalty for interference carried the Reds on and then Isbell passed to Jim McDonald for a touchdown.

The next touchdown, and second of the scrimmage, was made by Uram on the reverse that Gmitro featured later. Uram set it up by his thirty-five yard punt return.

After the second Red team manufactured its two touchdowns, and just before the end of scrimmage, Milton Popovich of Montana crossed the goal line. In this drive Robbins had passed to Benson to place the ball within ten yards of the goal. Prior to that Fred Vanzo of Northwestern had made nine yards in two smashes.

The sixth touchdown of the afternoon was made when the first Red team returned. Isbell passed to Jack White. Later Clay Calhoun, Loyola full back, playing for the Blues, completed a pass by a brilliant diving catch, the most difficult of the day.

Seconds later Bunny McCormick of Notre Dame broke away for twenty-five yards, but the Blues never linked these assaults together.

A Good Center, Gallagher May Be All-Star End

BY HOWARD BARRY.

There's a treat in store for those discerning football fans who like to watch a clever lineman as well as a spectacular half back. Some of the most skilful players ever brought together will take their places in the college All-Star line against the Washington Redskins on Aug. 31 in Soldiers' field.

Among these linemen will be Frank Gallagher, whose brilliant work had so much to do with Yale's success last season. As a center, Gallagher was a mighty interesting fellow to watch, followers of eastern football agree. He was ever alert to size up the opponents' attack and would usually get to the danger spot either in time to make the tackle himself or else to back up the play.

His playing weight last season was only 185 pounds, but he was a hard, fast charger and knew how to break through without depending on sheer power. The coaches on the All-Star squad are considering using him at end instead of at center. He has had some experience at this position, having played it on the Yale freshman team.

Builds Up Weight During Training.

Another factor that may influence the coaches in making the change is the fact that Gallagher is now nearly fifteen pounds below his playing weight. This is nothing unusual, he says. He always loses many pounds between seasons and then puts them on as soon as he gets back to hard training. However, the coaches believe that his talents may be worth more to the squad at end than at center.

Gallagher played two seasons with the Yale varsity, after having been captain of his freshman team. Those two seasons—his sophomore and senior years—were packed with excitement but Frank got his biggest thrill of all out of helping beat the Army last season.

Losing to the Army was threatening to become one of Yale's fine old traditions. There had been ties in 1930 and 1931, but no Yale team had been able to win from the Army since 1929. Last year Gallagher and his teammates dropped the Cadets, 15 to 7.

He'll Work Under Old Coach.

Gallagher attributes much of Yale's fine showing of recent seasons to the work of Coach Ducky Pond. "A great guy and a good coach," is the way the Yale boys like to describe him. Gallagher will be working under his old boss as he prepares for the All-Star game, for Pond is a member of the squad's coaching staf.

As a Great Fighter Donned His Third Crown

RAINS COME, BUT WISCONSIN'S FISH CONTINUE TO BITE

BY BOB BECKER.

Although many of the northern Wisconsin lakes are higher than usual, fishermen going after bass, pike, and muskies are finding that these high water levels aren't affecting the fishing.

On our recent visit to the Flambeau Indian reservation in Wisconsin we picked up pike in Fence and Crooked lakes, caught bass in Ike Walton lake and saw a muskie try to steal a small wall-eye from a hook. Considering this activity it is apparent that heavy rains haven't hurt the fishing at all.

It's Quite an Experience.

Quite a few fresh water anglers have had the experience of trying to catch pike with interference on the part of a big muskie.

When we were fishing Gunlock lake the other day our partner, R. M., played games with a muskie that tried to steal a small wall-eye on his line. We saw the pike strike and then watched the fisherman as he reeled in his catch.

The fish that was hooked bent the rod until the tip touched the water. There was more pumping and fighting, then R. M. reeled in a small wall-eye.

Look at Pike Tells Story.

One look at this little wall-eye and it was apparent that something mighty funny had happened. No 13 inch pike ties a fisherman's bait casting rod into knots. We asked to see the pike because we figured the fish would reveal its own story. It did. There was a long gash on its side. Its throat was badly lacerated and the underpart of one gill had been mutilated where the muskie's teeth had been buried.

The lunge had seized the poor pike a few seconds after it had been caught. It had hung on for quite a buggy ride and a lot of exercise while the fisherman pumped and reeled. Then the muskie had let go.

WITAN REVEALS AWFUL TRUTH ABOUT HIMSELF

He Just Doesn't Travel Very Fast, It Seems.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Witan burned up some more hay at Washington Park yesterday afternoon for those persons who simply can't seem to resist the ancient horse. He was entered to be claimed for $1,250. He hadn't been on the track long before more than $8,000 had been wagered on him. But—and here's the miserable part about it—he hadn't been running long until it became evident that this again was not his day.

Black Buddy, owned by Mose Goldblatt of Cincinnati, was the first to conquer him. Then on the extreme outside came China Boy to beat them both by two lengths.

Witan's army of backers took a solemn oath they would never again squander another penny on the rascal. But they've sworn that before. Each time he came out on a track that was slow or muddy they went for him, hook, line, and sinker, just as they did in yesterday's race.

Ninth Start of Year.

Witan doesn't win as often as the ordinary horse. This was his ninth start of the year and during that campaign he has won only one race. On that occasion he was at 7 to 10 in the betting. In yesterday's race he was the even money favorite. Fine chance Witan's admirers have of getting even on him.

He's always flattering his backers, however, and he did it in this latest endeavor. He bounded to the front early and was in front by a length rounding the turn, but then he surrendered to finish third.

The awful truth about the whole thing is that Witan really can't run as fast as his admirers think. China Boy, always at home on the Washington track, and always a longshot, it seems, paid $18.20 for a $2 ticket after Jocky Nunzio Pariso drove him on to victory.

Transmutable, Too.

Almost the same thing happened in the fifth race. Transmutable, always a favorite and seldom a winner, again was the favorite and again he wasn't the winner. His effort, while somewhat similar to that of Witan, was even more feeble. He too made the pace for a time. Yet, when he started to quit he did a better job of it than Witan. He dropped entirely out of the money.

Dark Sun paid $16.40 when he got the decision over Our Crest and Bien Fait. Those who still were breathing after Witan got through with them used the last gasp when Transmutable had worked on their bank rolls.

Torchy Wins Handicap.

Leading from start to finish Torchy, from Dixiana stable, captured the grade C handicap, the best event on the program, by a length from Mrs. Jake Lowenstein's filly Novelette. Rhiniz was third. It was a battle between Jockies Joe Rosen and Kenneth McCombs all through the run down the 4 6mc stretch. Torchy was too good for the Chicago filly, however. Torchy, which ran the mile in 1:39 2-5, was the favorite in the betting. He paid $7.60 for a $2 ticket.

AM. TELEPHONE VOTES REGULAR $2.25 DIVIDEND

Payment Causes Dip Into Surplus.

Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share on the common stock. Payment of the dividend Oct. 15 to holders of the 18,686,794 common shares outstanding will entail a cash outlay of approximately 42 million dollars. The company is one of the few that maintained regular dividend rates throughout the depression years.

A recent report showed that net profit of American Telephone in the first half of 1938 was $75,666,860. This was equivalent to $4.05 a share. In the first half of 1938, at the regular dividend rate of $9 a year, the corporation paid $4.50 a share to stockholders. Thus it was necessary to dig into surplus funds to make up the difference between the net profits available and the amount disbursed.

Business Gain Indicated.

Indication that general business conditions are improving was reported by officials of the corporation in the sudden increase in telephone stations since the last week of July. In the preceding seven weeks instalations experienced the regular summer decline. The sharp pickup in the last three weeks came a month earlier than usual.

A meeting of directors of the Douglas Aircraft company, scheduled for today, has been postponed indefinitly, company officials announced yesterday. Consideration was to be given to the company's dividend policy for the remainder of the fiscal year ending Nov. 30. Deferment of the meeting, according to company announcement, was due to the absence from general headquarters in Santa Monica, Cal., of several of the firm's directors.

Order Reduced Payments.

Reduced payments were ordered by the Monarch Machine Tool company and the Magma Copper company. The former, a Cleveland corporation, will pay 25 cents Sept. 1 on its common stock. On June 1 it paid 30 cents and on March 1, 40 cents. Magma Copper, a Maine corporation with mines in Arizona, declared a dividend of 25 cents, payable Sept. 15. In previous quarters 35 cents was paid.

Herbert Abraham, president of the Ruberoid company, announced that directors of the corporation decided yesterday to defer action on a common stock dividend until a clearer report could be had of profits for the year. The company manufactures roofing products. Last payment by the firm was 15 cents in cash and $1.40 in 4 per cent promissory notes on Dec. 20, 1937.

OPPOSE KEEPING PIPELINE CHIEF AT $24,000 SALARY

Minority stockholders of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company yesterday criticized the reported plan of the company to retain William G. Maguire as general manager at an annual salary of $24,000. The stockholders sent a letter to the directors.

Edward Rothbart, counsel for the minority stockholders who signed the letter said he understood that the directors planned to employ Maguire and grant him certain stock purchase options at a meeting to be held today.

Air Conditioning System Sales Set July Record

Central plant air conditioning systems contracted for in Chicago set a new high record for July, the Commonwealth Edison company announced yesterday. Forty-seven contracts were closed, compared with 44 in July a year ago. General offices and restaurants accounted for more than half of the contracts, with 18 and 10 respectively. Drug stores placed 5. The company sold 104 electric room coolers last month, against 152 in July, 1937.

Public Service (N.J.) Profit in July $1,485,647

Smaller profits were reported in interim statements issued yesterday to stockholders of several corporations. The Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, the Armstrong Cork company, and the American Agricultural Chemical company were among the companies reporting reduced earnings. Raybestos-Manhattan, Inc., and a number of other companies issued reports showing losses on operations.

Public Service of New Jersey had July net income of $1,485,647 compared with $1,522,487 in July, 1937. For the twelve months ended July 31 net income was $22,537,730, equal after preferred dividends to $2.30 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year net income was $25,505,542 or $2.84 per common share.

Chemical's Profit $1,401,075.

Net income of American Agricultural Chemical for the fiscal year ended June 30 was $1,401,075, equal to $6.69 a share. This compared with $1,868,944 or $8.86 a share in the preceding twelve months. A special meeting of stockholders was called for Sept. 21 to vote on an increase in the capital stock. If the change is approved the present stock will be increased three shares for one. The company manufacturers chemical fertilizers and by-products.

The Armstrong Cork company's net income in the first half of 1938 was $285,093, after interest, depreciation, and reserve for federal income tax. This compared with $3,825,030 in the first half of 1937. Domestic sales for the six months were $16,507,756, compared with $22,348,616 in the corresponding period of 1937, and sales of foreign subsidiaries were $1,142,452, against $1,581,738.

Razor Maker Earns More.

The June quarter profit of American Safety Razor increased to $247,356 or 47 cents a share from $225,761 or 43 cents a share in the preceding quarter. The profit was less than the 1937 June quarter net, which amounted to $309,118 or 59 cents a share.

FAIR TRADE ACT MAY BE INVOKED IN GASOLINE WAR

Possible steps for the ending of Chicago's gasoline price war will be taken tonight at a massmeeting called by the Gasoline Retailers' association of Metropolitan Chicago. Earlier efforts by which the gasoline dealers had hoped to end the war failed.

C. E. Ragan, president of the association, will address tonight's meeting, which begins at 8 o'clock at Electrician's hall at 47 North Ogden avenue. He will call on those present for suggestions. Ragan said about 1,500 gasoline dealers are expected to attend.

The method now seen as holding the best possibility of ending the price war is to invoke the Illinois fair trade act, Ragan said.

Under this act, he said, the major companies making branded gasolines are believed to have the right to establish prices at which their products may be sold to the public. The act now governs prices of whisky and other products.

JUNE JOBS FALL 3,340,000 FROM SEPTEMBER, 1937

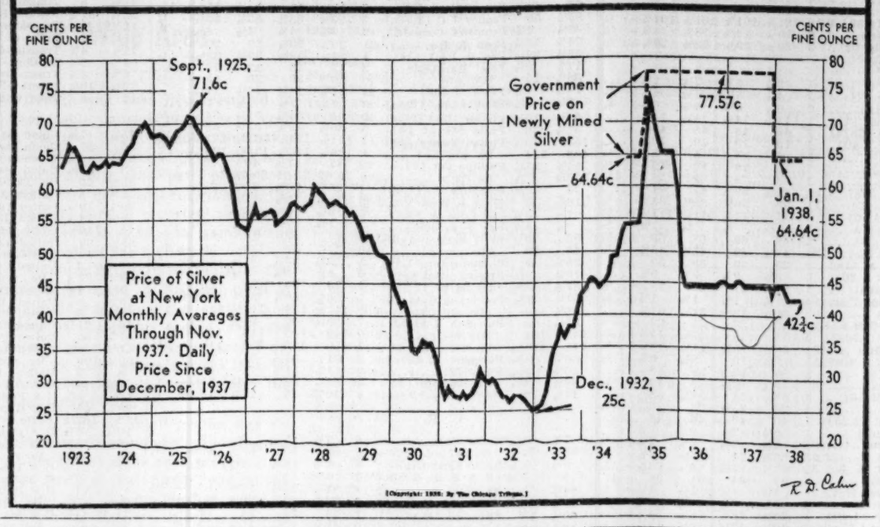
New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The national industrial conference board today said the total employment in June showed a decline of 3,340,000 persons from September, 1937, the high month in employment in the recovery movement.

In the same period, there was an increase of 79,000 persons in the regular federal, state, and local government pay rolls, it said. This does not include the emergency forces in WPA and CCC.

GRIME IS NO CRIME, JUDGE DECIDES; BANK WINDOWS STAY DIRTY

The windows are dirty in the vacant two story building at 3936 Lincoln avenue which once housed the defunct Lincoln Trust and Savings bank. Merchants around there don't like it. Attorney Isadore Fried yesterday asked Judge Michael Feinberg to order that the premises be cleaned. It is regarded as a ghost building, he said. But the court ruled that the merchants had no legal rights in the matter. The windows will stay dirty.

Fifteen Year Record of the Price of Silver in the United States



91 Rails' July Revenues Fall to 240 Million

Estimated net operating income of 91 class 1 railroads in July was $240,924,393, against $292,983,939 in July, 1937, and $368,865,735 in July, 1930, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

The July net operating income was 17.8 per cent below July, 1937, and 34.7 per cent below July, 1930. Net operating income is after expenses of operation have been met but before payment of interest on bonds and other fixed charges.

Freight Revenue $189,845,553.

Freight revenues in July totaled $189,845,553, against $233,025,902 in July, 1937, and $280,600,384 in July, 1930. Passenger revenues totaled $31,248,582, compared with $34,619,802 in July, 1937, and $54,592,671 in July, 1930. Freight revenues declined 18.5 per cent from July, 1937, and passenger revenues declined 9.7 per cent.

The Chesapeake and Ohio, one of the most profitable roads in the country, reported that its July net income was sharply below July, 1937. The total for last July was $1,833,858, against $3,011,846 in July, 1937. Net income is income after payment of fixed charges and represents the profit to the owners.

BRANIFF SEEKING TO VOID RIVAL'S FREE AIR MAIL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Robert Smith, vice president of Braniff Airways, said today he would try to learn if his company could sue to revoke the postoffice department's award of a contract to Eastern Airlines, Inc. The contract calls for flying mail free between Houston and Brownsville, Tex., and between Houston and San Antonio.

The two concerns have fought for the contract since early in the year. Eastern Airlines were reported to have made the "zero" bid to gain direct connection with Pan-American Airlines at Brownsville.

Smith said the postoffice department had announced July 12 that it would not act on the two bids, but leave the matter up to the new civil aeronautics authority, which becomes operative Monday. Braniff airlines had submitted a bid of .00001907378 a mile, which figured about four cents a year.

NOTED EXPERTS REAPPOINTED TO AIR COMMITTEE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today announced the reappointment of Orville Wright, Dr. Joseph S. Ames, Edward P. Warner, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and Commander Jerome C. Hunsaker as members of the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

He also added to the list Edward J. Noble, chairman, and Clinton M. Hester, administrator of the new civil aeronautics authority, and Prof. Vannevar Bush of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Ames, who is the present chairman of the committee, is president emeritus of Johns Hopkins university. Commander Hunsaker is at the head of the department of mechanical engineering at Massachusetts institute.

Midland Utilities Hearing Is Postponed Until Aug. 23

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—A hearing scheduled for Friday on an application of the committee for debenture holders of Midland Utilities company for approval of a reorganization plan was postponed by the securities commission until Aug. 23.

NELSON HEADS BOARD ON WAGES AND HOURS IN TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Donald M. Nelson, vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago, today was named to head the textile industry committee which will recommend standards to be fixed in that industry. Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the fair labor standards act, made the appointment.

Donald M. Nelson.

Andrews has asked fourteen others to come here Friday to discuss with Nelson the problems of the textile industry as they affect wages and hours. This committee will be the first to undertake studies looking toward recommendations as to wage and hour standards. There are 600,000 workers in the textile industry.

The names of the rest of the committee will be announced Friday. The textile industry board is considered to have the most exacting problem of any to be named under the act, which goes into effect Oct. 24. This committee is to be the "proving ground" for the act, inasmuch as it must consider problems of an industry scattered over the eastern, northern and southern sections of the nation.

The committee is to be composed of an equal number of representatives of employers, workers and the public.

MOVE TO IMPORT MEXICAN OIL MAY BRING TEST CASE

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The possibility of a test fight over the right to import Mexican oil into this country appeared nearer today. Confirmation was obtained of reports that the Eastern States Petroleum company, a small American company plans to bring its first shipment of Mexican oil to Houston, Tex., soon. The cargo would be the first Mexican oil imported for American use since foreign owned oil properties were seized by Mexico last spring. A vessel sent to bring the oil docked at a Mexican port today.

The company confirmed the reports of its intention to bring in the cargo, and denied that the oil was expropriated from Standard Oil of New Jersey or the smaller American firms whose Mexican properties were seized.

A spokesman for Standard Oil said that company, the chief American company affected, had been notified the oil was not from one of its fields. However, he said, an investigation was being made, and that if Standard Oil should find cause to believe any oil from their expropriated properties is brought to this country, it will take legal steps to attach it.

JULY AIR TRAVEL TOPS JUNE MARK BY 4.7 PER CENT

Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America, said yesterday that domestic air lines reported 42,208,362 revenue passenger miles were flown in July. This was a 4.7 per cent increase over June.

Gorrell said 250,362,034 revenue passenger miles were reported for the first seven months of this year, an increase of 14.4 per cent over the corresponding 1937 period.

Continued advertising in newspapers, increased vacation travel by air, and supervision of the air lines by a single agency, the Civil Aeronautics authority, instead of three agencies as formerly, were factors in the increase, he said.

Action Delayed on Return of 3 Facing Illinois Charge

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Hearing on the government's application for removal to Chicago of three men facing mail fraud charges was adjourned today until Sept. 2. The three are Edward Schofs and Arthur L. Rosenfeld, both of New York, and Murray Heitel of Harrington Park, N. J. They and five others are under indictment in the Northern Illinois District charged with sale of stock of the Mineral Mining company of Placerville, Idaho.

Stocks Lose Early Gains, Close Uneven

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—Stocks closed irregular today. Early strength sent many prices 1 to 2 points higher, but hopes for extending the rise a third consecutive day faded during the afternoon. Most of the leaders gave up their morning gains to close unchanged or fractionally lower.

Only 687 issues appeared on the tape as trading continued dull. Advances were scored by 279 issues, 236 declined, and 172 were unchanged. Turnover was 595,950 shares.

The Dow-Jones industrial average pushed up to 140.89, but was back to 139.03 at the close for a net gain of 0.59. The rail average came back from 28.35 to 27.94, a decline of 0.02. Utilities slipped from a 20.05 high to close at 19.77, off 0.03.

Cause of Market Swings.

The calmer view of the foreign situation was said to be a factor in the early rise.

Influenced in part by the gain reported in residential construction last month, building shares were among the bright spots. Although finishing a little below their top prices, United States Gypsum and Johns Manville held gains of 1¾ apiece. American Radiator, however, merely held even, Crane was off a fraction.

Chemicals also did well. Du Pont extended its rise of the last few days 1¼ more. Dow jumped 5.

Chrysler and General Motors, after pushing ahead a point more, settled back to close at minor losses. Steels, among the strongest starters, faded rapidly. United States Steel backed down from 59¼ to 57⅛ and a loss of ⅜. Bethlehem shifted from a point gain to a decline of ⅞. Republic and Inland were unchanged.

Rail Group Is Uneven.

Among the rails, New York Central was unchanged and Pennsylvania closed ⅛ lower. Santa Fe broke from 36⅝ to a close with a loss of 1¼ at 34½. Union Pacific was strong, closing 2 points higher.

Individual issues standing out with gains of 1 to 3 points included American Tobacco, Lone Star Cement, International Business Machines, Eastman Kodak, Hercules Powder, Pullman, and United Carbon.

National Biscuit touched a new high, reflecting its improved position with lower grain prices. Penick and Ford, under similar influences, jumped 1⅞. Corn Products showed early strength, but faded.

Cables from Berlin reported that stocks rallied there after a further decline on early transactions. Prices fell 4 to 5 points on the bourse on Monday. The slump continued when the market opened yesterday, but prices steadied and closed above the low quotations for the day.

London stocks were quiet and steady. The Paris market was irregular. Amsterdam prices were firm.

'MOP' FILES 321 EXCEPTIONS TO STOCK REPORT

Cleveland, O., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad has filed with the Securities and Exchange commission 321 specific exceptions to the report of Trial Examiner Richard Townsend on the status of the road's stocks. Proceedings were brought by the commission to determine whether the preferred and common shares of the road should be suspended or withdrawn from listing on the New York Stock exchange.

The brief accompanying the exceptions stated Townsend's report "contains so many clearly erroneous statements, implications and omissions of material facts as to render the entire report of little value to the commission . . . that the evidence establishes no basis whatsoever for the proceedings and that they should, therefore, be dismissed."

The SEC charged the Missouri Pacific filed with it an application for permanent registration of securities and certain annual reports containing copies of annual reports of the bankruptcy trustee to the Interstate Commerce commission for the years 1934, 1935 and 1936 which were alleged to be false and misleading.

School Board to Retire $18,325 of Tax Warants

Board of education tax anticipation warants totaling $18,325 were called for payment yesterday by the office of James B. McCahey, president. The warants are 1931 building fund, E97981 to B98109; 1933 building fund, B15270 to B15290; 1934 building fund, B6879 to B6883; and 1933 playground fund, P2215 to P2219.

U. S. WILL SEEK WHEAT ACCORD WITH CANADA

Subsidy of Exports Waits on It.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said today that the United States will seek an understanding with Canada on wheat export policy before deciding on a program of subsidizing exports.

"It is our hope," Wallace said, "that we can work coöperatively with Canada in this matter to preserve the interests of both countries."

Joint action by the United States and Canada, he said, should assure both countries in getting their "fair share" of world markets.

Both Canada and the United States have large surpluses to sell abroad. The American surplus is placed at 325 million bushels. Canada has 250 million bushels for sale abroad.

Wallace Tells Aim.

The aim of the United States, Wallace said, is to ensure the sale of at least 100 million bushels of American wheat in the world market this year.

Wallace said he was not ready to discuss specific methods that may be used in subsidizing exports. Various plans are being discussed, he said. The most frequently mentioned method provides for a direct subsidy which would give the exporter the difference between the price realized in the world market and the domestic market price.

The subsidization is to come from the one-third of customs receipts which are earmarked for this purpose by the 1935 AAA legislation. These, Wallace indicated, would be far more than sufficient for the purpose, although he did not estimate what the program will cost. He did recall, however, that it cost about $6,500,000 to subsidize export of about 26 million bushels of northwestern wheat to the orient in 1934.

Canada Has Minimum Price.

The Canadian dominion government has established a minimum price for wheat, based on 81 cents a bushel for No. 1 Manitoba at Fort William, which it will pay to farmers. The government in turn will sell the wheat in the world market at the best price obtainable, absorbing any losses on the operation. The present dominion government has pledged itself not to accumulate a large surplus as was done by the Canadian wheat board a few years ago. It has indicated that it will meet competition of other exporting countries and will sell at prices sufficiently low to move its grain.

The combined surpluses of the United States and Canada are sufficient to fill the import needs of the entire world, estimated at 500 million bushels this season. Other surplus producing countries have another 400 million bushels available for export.

WHEAT MARKET STRONG

Bullish sentiment predominated in the North American wheat markets yesterday. Prices at the best levels of the day showed an advance of as much as 2¾ cents a bushel compared with the closing prices on Tuesday. Minneapolis led the early advance, with millers reported as good buyers.

Weakness in corn caused wheat to lose part of its upturn. Closing prices on the Chicago Board of Trade were ⅞ to 1 cent higher. Other American markets gained 1⅛ to 1¾ cents. Winnipeg closed ¼ to 1 cent higher.

At no time yesterday were corn futures above the close of the preceding day. Reports of a lack of export demand and increased country offerings of cash grain for deferred shipment led to increased pressure. Closing trades were at the low point of the day. Net losses were 1 to 1⅜ cents.

Oats were ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher. Rye gained ¼ cent in sympathy with wheat. Soy beans closed ⅜ to ¾ cent a bushel higher.

E. Edelmann & Co. Expands Factory, Raises Salaries

E. Edelmann & Co., maker of automobile specialties, announced yesterday that its factory at 2332 Logan boulevard is being enlarged to meet increased demand for some of its products. The company's sales force is being enlarged 75 per cent and all salaries increased, Leo Edelmann, president, said. He reported a revival of activity in the industry and said jobbers' inventories have been reduced.

HIRES PAYS ANOTHER SALARY DIVIDEND; HEINZ ADDS WORKERS

Charles E. Hires company, Philadelphia, yesterday announced a dividend of one week's salary to all employés who have been in continuous service for fifty-two weeks ended Aug. 13. The company has been paying the salary dividends at the rate of one every three months.

H. J. Heinz company announced it planned to add about 600 workers to the branch at Fremont, O., within two weeks. N. J. Simpson, plant superintendent, said that 225 men and women already have been taken on to process vegetables.

About 7,000 workers have returned to their jobs at the Dayton, O., plant of the National Cash Register company after two weeks' vacation.

Regular Coal Carrying Barge Service Starts

Increased use of the Illinois waterway system for carrying coal from Illinois mines to Chicago was indicated yesterday. A huge barge with 1,250 tons arrived at the dock of the Hoskins Coal and Dock corporation from Copperas creek, Ill., below Peoria. This is the first to be received by barge by the company.

J. C. Hoskins, president of the coal company, said that from now on during the period of open navigation four barges will arrive weekly at the company dock, which is near the mouth of the Chicago river, near the new outer link bridge.

Edison Supplied by Barge.

The Commonwealth Edison has been bringing in coal by barge from downstate for use at its huge Chicago power plants for some time.

The coal brought in to the Hoskins dock is obtained from mines within a radius of twenty miles from Copperas creek. Hoskins buys it at the mines and transports it to the docks at Copperas creek in a fleet of trucks. The water trip to Chicago takes three days.

The saving in transportation costs from the Illinois mines to the Chicago dock is 70 cents a ton, Hoskins said. The water cost for the 184 miles is 65 cents a ton and the trucking cost involved is 30 cents a ton, or a total of 95 cents a ton. Hoskins said the rail cost on coal shipped from the area to Chicago is $1.65 a ton.

Aids Competition with Gas.

Hoskins declared that the low cost of water freight will enable Illinois coal to compete in the loop district with gas for heating purposes. He said that recently gas had the advantage over coal for the heating of the large loop buildings.

Preparations are being made by the United Electric Coal companies for shipping coal from its mine near Canton to the Marquette Cement company at La Salle. United Electric is building a small railroad from its mine to a dock on the Illinois river below Peoria from which shipments will be made.

COURT HALTS SLUDGE PATENT SETTLEMENTS

Activated Sludge, Inc., was temporarily halted yesterday from making further compromise settlements in connection with alleged infringements of patents held by it for the purification of sewage. Judge Philip L. Sullivan issued the order pending disposal of a suit before the court to determine the rights of various claimants to the patents.

The sludge company recently obtained a compromise settlement with the city of Milwaukee whereby the city agreed to pay $818,000 for infringement of the patents. Similar suits are pending against the Sanitary district of Chicago and other cities.

Judge Sullivan continued until Oct. 7 a motion by counsel for Albert W. Dilling, former chief engineer for the Sanitary District of Chicago, who seeks the appointment of a receiver for all amounts collected. Dilling alleges that he and three associates were the original licensees in the United States for the English patents held by the company.

The court set Oct. 7 for a hearing on Attorney Ahern's motion to file a supplemental complaint against the company charging conspiracy to turn over its funds to 16 assignees, and making them defandants to the suit.

GAIN IN STEEL OUTPUT SLOWER, SAYS IRON AGE

The recovery movement in the steel industry was slower this week, Iron Age said yesterday. Steel ingot production crept up to 41 per cent of the theoretical capacity, but the magazine said that much of the small gain was attributed to the replenishing of raw steel stocks by producers themselves. Many mills have found that depleted inventories are preventing quick deliveries demanded by customers, according to the publication.

This week's production rate was a gain of 1 point over last week's operating schedule of 40 per cent of capacity. Chicago area's output rose 2 points to 36 per cent of capacity. Pittsburgh mills continued to operate at the 30 per cent rate.

Iron Age reported that steel scrap prices, which have been rising since early in July when the current recovery in the industry began, are lower this week. Pittsburgh quotations were off 25 cents a ton, and Chicago and Philadelphia prices were 50 cents lower. The Iron Age scrap composite price dropped to $14.41 from last week's average of $14.83.

Mediation Board Is Still Active in Rail Pay Fight

The national mediation board continued its efforts to end the railroad wage dispute yesterday. It met with the carriers' committee which is headed by H. A. Enochs at the Drake hotel. This afternoon it will meet at the Palmer house with a committee representing eighteen unions. The railroads are trying to put a 15 per cent wage cut into effect. The unions say they will not take the cut.

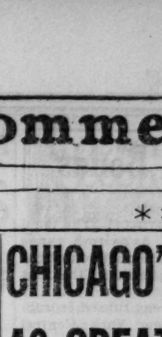
Lion Oil Completes Loan to Push Arkansas Drilling

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Lion Oil Refining company announced today the completion of a loan of $3,200,000 from the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company of New York. The loan will provide additional working capital and funds for completion of a development in the Shuler, Ark., oil field. The company plans two years of drilling.

CHICAGO'S RISE AS GREAT STEEL CENTER TRACED

Carnegie Aid Tells Century's Change.

Growth of Chicago as one of the world's greatest steel producing centers was traced yesterday by G. Cook Kimball, executive vice president of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. He spoke before the Traffic Club of Chicago at the Palmer house. Kimball is in charge of all activities of United States Steel corporation subsidiaries in the Chicago district.



G. Cook Kimball.

Since the first little iron foundry was set up in Chicago in 1835 the steel industry has grown until the Chicago district now has an annual production capacity of 15,000,000 tons of ingots, Kimball said. This is approximately 22 per cent of the entire steel production capacity of the nation.

Under normal conditions, the steel industry employs more than 53,000 men in the principal Chicago area plants. Many thousands more are employed in warehouses, and fabricating and finishing plants, Kimball said.

Goes Into Many Products.

"Chicago's steel plants supply steel for tin cans that bring American farm products to the dinner tables of the nation," he said. "They furnish steel for skyscrapers, for automobiles, and farm machinery; steel rails for the railroads and special steels for the modern streamlined passenger trains and for light weight freight cars.

"The Chicago district has pioneered in many steel making achievements since the first steel plant was built here in 1857. The first steel rails rolled in the United States were rolled here. The first steel bridge—that over the Missouri river at Glasgow, Mo., was built here. The South works at South Chicago have been credited with being the birthplace of the industrial safety movement."

Kimball recalled that in the fifth decade of the nineteenth century two important mineral discoveries were made. One, the discovery of gold in California in 1848 attracted worldwide attention. The other, the discovery of iron ore in the Marquette range of northern Michigan, while less spectacular, was equally important, he said.

First Plant in 1857.

In 1857, two years after iron ore began to move from the Lake Superior region to the lower lakes, the iron and steel industry had its actual founding in Chicago, although there is record of a small iron foundry in 1835. The first company was known as the North Chicago Rolling Mill company. Its plant was located on the north branch of the Chicago river, where the first steel rails were rolled.

As Chicago and the middle west grew, the steel making capacity of the area was taxed. One Chicago company acquired 591 acres of frontage on Lake Michigan—the site of the South Chicago plant of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation—and the first blast furnaces began operation in 1882.

The old North Chicago Rolling Mill company, later the Chicago Rolling mill company, was the nucleus from which through mergers developed the old Illinois Steel company. This in turn has become the Carnegie-Illinois.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The bond market moved in a narrow range today. It turned quiet after a slight flurry of buying interest in the first hour.

A few railroad liens turned in substantial gains. New York Central issues scored sizeable advances. The 5s closed 1¼ higher at 60 and the 4½s were 1⅛ up to 28.

International telephone issues accounted for a large share of the activity, prompted by the news that the company had completed arrangements for meeting a nearby maturity. The 5s rose 2¼ at 72¾.

United States government loans were quiet. Some treasury issues touched new highs for the year. At the finish governments were 4-32ds of a point higher to 1-32d lower.

Foreign loans were somewhat easier. The issues declined.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks advanced slightly in dull trading yesterday. The Tribune average closed at 10.92, against 10.88 on Tuesday. Southwest Gas and Electric preferred closed at 104½, up 2½ for a new 1938 peak.

Leading in the trade were Bendix Aviation, which closed unchanged at 22⅛; Zenith Radio, up ⅜ to close at 20; Rollins Hosiery, unchanged at 1¾; Lion Oil, up ½ at 24½, and Borg Warner unchanged at 31.

Bank Stocks.

Several leading Chicago banks stocks made substantial gains in slightly heavier trading yesterday. Shares of the American National Bank and Trust company were the most active, closing $10 higher at $210 bid, $225 asked. Northern Trust company stock gained $5 to close at $515 bid, $525 asked. Advances ranging from $1 to $2 were made by shares of the First National Bank, City National Bank and Trust company, and Chicago Title and Trust company.

U. S. GIVES NAZI BARTER SCHEME COLD RECEPTION

Opposed to Principle of Bilateral Pacts.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Germany's expression of interest in effecting a bilateral trade arrangement with the United States met a cold reception tonight in official quarters.

The suggestion was contained in a speech by the German secretary of state in the ministry of economics, Rudolf Brinckmann, to the American Chamber of Commerce in Berlin. It was made not many hours after Secretary of State Hull's speech of Tuesday night assailing the trend toward war which he said was fostered by economic policies of dictator nations. Hull did not mention Germany by name, but the inference was plain.

At the state department, Brinckmann's offer was said to be in conflict with the American idea that trade is not bilateral [solely between two countries], but multilateral [among many countries].

Proposes Barter Program.

[Brinckmann urged that an arrangement be made by which Germany could buy American cotton, fruit, wheat, lard, and canned meat and pay with German finished manufactures. This is virtually barter. The Nazi official said Germany easily "could buy three or four million bales of cotton a year from the United States."]

It was indicated that Secretary Hull may make a statement tomorrow on trade relations between Germany and the United States.

Washington officials said Germany knew very well the conditions under which the United States would be disposed to remove her from our "economic blacklist" and give her the generalized benefits of the trade agreements concluded with eighteen nations and also negotiate to a trade agreement with her.

Repeated Offers Made.

Secretary Hull, they said, has repeatedly offered normal trade relations with Germany, on the same basis as with other nations. He will not consent to the German system of barter and a double currency—the internal mark and the so-called "aski" mark used for foreign trade.

These officials also said they could not agree to the idea that Germany should take advantage of her position of a debtor to this country to force economic concessions from us on the grounds that she could thereby pay her debts to us.

They said Germany had favorable trade balances with some nations which could be used for the servicing of debts.

APPOINT IVAN WRIGHT SPECIAL EXECUTIVE ON STOCK EXCHANGE STAF

New York, Aug. 17. — (AP) — Ivan Wright, a finance lecturer at Columbia university summer school, has been appointed a special executive on the staf of William McChesney Martin, president of the New York Stock exchange, it was announced today. Wright's exact duties have not been defined, it was said, but Martin wished to have the exchange avail itself of Wright's knowledge of the functions of the securities markets.

Dean K. Worcester, vice president of the exchange, and Robert L. Fisher, secretary, will resign Oct. 1. It is understood that no successor to Worcester will be appointed. The duties of his office, since the reorganization late in the spring, have been merged with those of the new salaried president.

DROUTH AND HEAT DESTROY CORN IN SOME DISTRICTS

Moisture Is Needed in Wide Area.

Drouth and heat have resulted in irreparable damage to the corn crop in parts of South Dakota, Nebraska, and western Kansas. The crop also deteriorated in other parts of the corn belt where dry weather prevailed, the weather bureau reported yesterday, but was relieved by good rains in the latter half of the last week.

Moisture is needed in much of Illinois, large areas in Missouri, most of the middle Missouri river valley, and parts of the plains region, said the report. Temperatures averaged 5 degrees or more above normal in most of the agricultural states for the week ended Aug. 16.

Threshing of small grains was reported nearly completed. Plowing for winter wheat made good progress, except in the few places where the ground was too dry and in some of the central districts where there was interference by rain.

Reports on Rainfall.

Conditions By States.

Crop and moisture conditions in leading agricultural states as reported by the weather bureau:

ILLINOIS—Condition of corn generally fair to very good; earliest in roasting ear stage. Rain beneficial, as much corn was nearing critical stage. Small grain threshing practically completed except in north. Soy beans good.

IOWA—Corn advanced rapidly; earliest beginning to dent; bulk in hard roasting ear or dough stage; upland corn in many southern counties prematurely ripened and changing color; much corn blown down in south.

Missouri Corn Damaged.

MISSOURI—Corn crop deterioration was general except in southeastern part of state. Early corn fair to good north of Missouri river; much damage to late planted. Condition good to excellent in southeastern counties. In central and southwestern part of state, late corn severely damaged; much beyond recovery.

OKLAHOMA—Rain urgently needed in southern section. Progress of corn fair; condition fair to very good except that late crop burned in dry areas.

WISCONSIN—Corn good to excellent; much in roasting ear stage. Some delay in threshing due to wet weather. Potatoes good.

MINNESOTA—Rains insufficient in many localities for pastures and late crops which are deteriorating. Corn made good progress. Late potatoes fair to good.

MICHIGAN—Corn, beans, beets, and potatoes in excellent condition.

Showers Aid Montana Crops.

MONTANA—General showers improved corn, late wheat, and feed crops. Harvesting of spring wheat started in north central, well along in other sections.

NEBRASKA—Corn deteriorated until Aug. 14; damage serious to large acreage, but much remains in fair condition; there was improvement after the moderately heavy rains on Sunday. Pastures and alfalfa poor. Sorghums good.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Drouth and heat damaged corn extensively; condition spotted; wide areas will not make fodder. Threshing well along. Some movement of live stock from drier areas where feeding is necessary.

NORTH DAKOTA—Corn mostly in milk stage; condition ranges from fair to excellent. Small grains mostly harvested. Condition of spring wheat fair to excellent.
